

WASHINGTON DAILY HERALD.

THE WEATHER—Fair tonight and Wednesday

NEWS WITHOUT COLOR

VOL. 30 NO. 146

WASHINGTON C. H., OHIO, TUESDAY, JUNE 22, 1915

Ten Cents a Week

128 PROMINENT INDIANA
POLITICIANS ARE INDICTED

Tom Taggart, Democratic National Committeeman, Mayor Bell and Chief Perrott, of Indianapolis, Among the Accused.

SENSATION SPRUNG IN INDIANA
CAPITAL BY COUNTY GRAND JURY

Conspiracy in Elections, Bribery and Blackmail Among Counts Included in Blanket Indictment of 176 Typewritten Pages—Recent Exposures at Terre Haute Believed Responsible for Great Shake-up Among Politicians of Three Parties

By Associated Press.

Indianapolis, June 22.—An indictment charging election conspiracy was returned against more than 100 persons, including some high in party councils, by the Marion county grand jury here today.

The charges are based on the election of November 3, 1914, the registration of last September and October and the primary of May 5, 1914.

bribery and blackmail.

Included among those indicted are said to be a number of primary, registration and election officials. The indictment charges certain of these officials of conspiring to permit persons to register falsely and to vote falsely in the primary and in the election.

Another count charges persons with repeating. Padding the tally sheets for certain candidates is attacked in another section of the indictment. Repeaters were imported from outside the county for use in the election, it is asserted in the indictment.

Members of Mayor Bell's official family, former city officials, policemen, ward leaders and primary and election officials are among those indicted.

Don M. Roberts, former mayor of Terre Haute, who was convicted in the election fraud trial in Federal Court here recently, was also indicted. Roberts' connection with Indianapolis was touched upon during the trial in Federal Court when he was convicted and sentenced to 6 years in the federal prison.

Several witnesses mentioned the alleged fact that Roberts had sent repeaters to Indianapolis from Terre Haute to work during the election.

In all, 128 men were named in the indictment, which is said to be possibly the largest number of men ever indicted in a single bill.

Thomas Taggart was the first of the indicted men to appear at the sheriff's office to acknowledge service in the case. He was closely followed by Mayor Bell. Both were released on personal bonds of $5,000 each.

Thomas Taggart.

Who, With 127 Other Prominent Indianaans, Were Indicted Today For Election Frauds.

Thomas Taggart, Democratic national committeeman for Indiana, Mayor Joseph E. Bell, Chief of Police Samuel Perrott, Fred Barrett, city attorney and Democratic county chairman, Robert Metzger, former chief of police and Republican member of the Board of Safety and Frank P. Baker, former county prosecutor, are among the more prominent men indicted.

All the men—Democrats, Republicans and Progressives—are named in a single indictment, which contains 48 counts and covers 176 typewritten papers.

The main charge is conspiracy to obtain his freedom by means of habeas corpus, but was the first in which his plea was heard by a jury. The jury is to act as an advisory

THAW SURE OF SUCCESS

By Associated Press.

New York, June 22.—Fifty witnesses, summoned in behalf of Harry K. Thaw in his effort to prove that he is now sane and entitled to be set free from the Matteawan Asylum, were ready to testify in his sanity trial beginning today.

This was Thaw's fourth attempt to obtain his freedom by means of habeas corpus, but was the first in which his plea was heard by a jury.

The jury is to act as an advisory body and not trial jury, and the judge is not bound by its findings.

The prosecution is reported to be anxious to find Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, to call her as a witness. Thaw's mother, brother and sister, Mrs. George Carnegie, are expected to attend the trial.

Thaw was so confident of success that he was planning to attend the Panama-Pacific exposition.

HAITI HAS ANOTHER ONE

By Associated Press.

Washington, June 22.—New revolutionary activities in Haiti today caused the Navy Department to order Rear Admiral Caperton and the cruiser Washington, now at Vera Cruz, over to Cape Haitien with 700 bluejackets and 200 marines. The French cruiser Descartes already has landed bluejackets there.

ALL QUIET
IN GEORGIA
DURING DAY

By Associated Press.

Atlanta, Ga., June 22.—While the militia still was on guard today, there was no indication of a repetition of the exciting scenes of yesterday and last night, which followed announcement of the commutation of Leo M. Frank's death sentence.

VILLA PROMISES 1500
MEN FOR PROTECTION

Conference Aboard U. S. Cruiser Off Guaymas Ends in Agreement Which Will Insure Safety of Americans in Yaqui Valley, Where Situation Is Desperate—Landing of Marines Might Be Misunderstood, Argues Mexican Commandant.

By Associated Press.

On Board the U. S. S. Colorado, off Guaymas, Sonora, Mexico, by wireless to San Diego, Cal., June 22.

—Fifteen hundred Villa troops under General Sosa, were promised as protection for foreigners in the Yaqui valley at a conference aboard the warship Colorado today between Admiral Howard, commanding the Pacific fleet, and his staff and General Leyva, military commandant at Guaymas.

General Leyva said the landing of American marines might be misinterpreted by the masses of the Mexican people.

Washington, June 22.—Conditions in the Yaqui valley, where the United States is faced with the possibility of landing forces to protect the settlers against raiding Indians, are described as desperate in today's State Department dispatches.

This was Thaw's fourth attempt to obtain his freedom by means of habeas corpus, but was the first in which his plea was heard by a jury.

The jury is to act as an advisory

In the city the near-beer saloons closed by the authorities yesterday, were allowed to reopen this morning and there were no crowds in the streets.

At the governor's home it was stated that the militia probably will be withdrawn tonight.

Officials of the state and city insisted that last night's demonstration probably had ended the possibility of any menace to the governor by the people most bitterly opposed to the commutation of Frank's sentence. A state of preparedness was maintained, however, both by the police and military authorities.

So far as could be learned an arrangement had been made for an organized protest against the governor's action.

Reports from Milledgeville say the strain of the last few days has almost completely unnerved Frank.

SUBMARINES ARE ACTIVE

By Associated Press.

London, June 22.—Four more vessels have been sunk by submarines and in the case of one of them, the British steamer Carisbrook, 13 men of the crew are unaccounted for.

The Carisbrook, which was engaged in trans-Atlantic trade, was sunk by gunfire from a German submarine.

A Turkish steamer and two Turkish sailing vessels were torpedoed in the Black Sea by Russian submarines.

WILL FLOAT
FRENCH LOAN

By Associated Press.

New York, June 22.—J. P. Morgan & Company announced late today that arrangements have been made by them and the Rothschilds of Paris for the flotation in this country of a new French loan, the amount of which it was impossible to state at present.

From an unofficial source it was learned that the amount of the loan probably would be under $50,000,000, and that the interest would be about 5 per cent.

OHIO GIRL IS HELD AS SPY

By Associated Press.

Urbana, O., June 22.—Anna Hoffman, aged 37, daughter of Mrs. Kate Brunotte, of this city, is under arrest in England as a German spy, it became known today when her sister here received a letter from Miss Hoffman, asking assistance in securing her release. An appeal has been made to acting Secretary of State Lansing.

Miss Hoffman was employed in a hotel in London when arrested, and says the authorities excused their action on the ground that she was known to be of German descent.

Dunkirk, on the French coast, was bombed yesterday by a long range German gun and several civilians were killed.

Berlin, June 22.—An Overseas News Agency dispatch says the armies of six German generals, including Mackensen and Linsingen, are shelling the Russian main positions near Lemberg.

Confirmation of a report that General Gonzales had begun the occupation of Mexico City with Carranza forces was lacking, but a message from Consul Silliman at Vera Cruz said that communication with the capital had been severed. Officials thought it possible Zapata troops might have withdrawn from the capital.

Reports from Saltillo and Monclova tell of desperate need of relief.

It is reported that an American mining engineer had been killed by Mexicans at Monterey.

FALL OF LEMBERG
MATTER OF HOURS

Evacuation By Russ Already Under Way While Infantry Cleverly Covers Retreat.

ARMIES OF SIX GERMAN GENERALS ARE HAMMERING RUSS LINES OUTSIDE CITY

Great Retreat Is Under Way—Renewed Activity in Dardanelles—Fearful Carnage in Alsace—French Make Marked Gains—German Government Orders Suspension of Berlin Paper Which Published Note Tending to Widen Breach Between Germany and U. S.

By Associated Press.

Berlin, via wireless to Sayville, L. I., June 22.—An announcement made today by the Overseas News Agency says that the Russians before Lemberg have been defeated along their whole line and are fighting only to gain time, in order to save their artillery and other war material. The Germans and Austrians are within 10 miles of Lemberg, the announcement adds.

Athens, June 22.—Great activity is reported in the allied fleet at the Dardanelles, from which it is assumed that a general attack on the straits is planned. Fighting on the Gallipoli peninsula is being carried on vigorously.

Berlin, June 22.—The German authorities today informed the administration of the Berlin Tagau-Zeitung that it would have to suspend publication for an indefinite period, on account of the recent articles published in this paper on the subject of German-American relations, from the pen of Count von Reventlow.

The governments prompt action in suspending the Tagau-Zeitung is but one of many indications that responsible statesmen are eagerly desirous of finding a common ground for an understanding with America.

GEN. DE WET
SENTENCED

By Associated Press.

Bloemfontein, Union of South Africa, June 22.—A sentence of six years imprisonment and a fine of 2,600 pounds ($10,000) was imposed today on General Christian De Wet, one of the leaders of the South African rebellion against the British government, who was found guilty yesterday of treason on eight counts.

DENOOUNCE ACTION OF GOVERNOR

Atlanta, Ga., June 22.—The action of Governor Slaton in commuting the sentence imposed on Leo M. Frank for the murder of Mary Phagan has stirred Atlanta and Georgia to white heat. Indignation meetings are being held in many towns, at which resolutions denouncing the governor are being adopted. At Marietta, where Mary Phagan was born and buried, Governor Slaton has been hanged in effigy. Following a great mass meeting at which Slaton was bitterly denounced, a life sized dummy was suspended from a telegraph pole in the public square with this inscription, "John M. Slaton, King of the Jews and Georgia's traitor governor."

The governor was also hanged in effigy at Woodstock and other places. Turbulent crowds have marched through Atlanta's streets denouncing the governor, but there has been no approach to rioting. Only five arrests have been made, and these were for disorderly conduct. All the police reserves have been out, however, and the city authorities closed all the near-beer saloons and the locker clubs.

The most striking demonstration occurred at the capitol, where several thousand people gathered and yelled, "We want John M. Slaton." The crowd did not find the governor, however, for he did not leave his home. The crowd, after hearing denunciatory addresses from the capitol steps, invaded the capitol and held meetings in the house and senate chambers, at which resolutions denouncing the governor were adopted.

The tenor of the resolutions is that Governor Slaton has destroyed trial by jury and broken down the courts of Georgia.

Governor's Statement.

"All I ask is that the people of Georgia read my statement and consider calmly the reasons that I have given for commuting Leo M. Frank's sentence to life imprisonment," said Governor Slaton. "Feeling as I do about this case, I would be a murderer if I allowed that man to hang. I would rather be plowing in a field than to feel for the rest of my life that I had that man's blood on my hands."

The governor discussed with reporters some of the points which led him to commute the sentence when he was making public his formal statement. He showed a remarkable familiarity with the record, and when reporters remarked the fact, said: "I have learned that record almost by heart. Mr. Dorsey himself, I don't believe, is more familiar with the record than I am."

The governor is positive in his statements indicating that all doubt of the guilt of Conley and the innocence of Frank has been removed from his mind by his careful study of the facts of the case. The governor's decision, which makes about nine ordinary newspaper columns, is a thorough review of the case from the beginning.

Frank has commenced his term of life imprisonment on the Georgia state prison farm at Milledgeville, where he was secretly taken immediately after the governor had announced he had concluded to commute the death sentence. Workmen in the Atlanta county jail are taking down the scaffold on which Frank was to have been hanged between 10 a. m. and 3:30 p. m. today. By so narrow a margin did he escape the noose.

Mob Threatens Governor.

With several hundred men and boys clamoring to get into the front gates of his country home on Peachtree road, which had been barricaded with barbed wire entanglements, and threatening to overpower twenty county policemen armed with riot guns, Governor Slaton called out the militia for protection.

Four companies of militia responded. When the soldiers lined up with fixed bayonets to disperse the crowd, stones, bricks and bottles were thrown at them. A brick struck Lieutenant Arnold Parker in the stomach and rendered him unconscious. The mob soon afterward dispersed.

The governor proclaimed martial law in a district extending half a mile in front of his home, half a mile back and for a distance of a quarter of a mile on either side.

BRITISH WARNED TO AVOID MEXICO

London, June 22.—The official press bureau issued the following statement: "In view of the existing state of affairs in Mexico, the secretary for foreign affairs (Sir Edward Grey) desires to warn British subjects against visiting that country unless absolutely obliged to do so by imperative necessity. Joan Jamistone, a British subject, has been killed by Yaqui Indians in Mexico.

GOV. WILLIS GIVES UP TRIP TO THE COAST

Columbus, June 22.—Governor Willis abandoned his scheduled trip to the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco, where he was to have been the orator and chief guest at the exercises in celebration of Ohio day, July 2. He may visit the exposition late in August or early in September. A little unfinished business concerning hold-over members of commissions had to do in part with the change in plans, but new business which unexpectedly presented itself regarding conditions in some of the state institutions was said to be chief consideration.

A serious condition has developed at the new Lima state hospital. There is a crying demand for use of the housing facilities of this new hospital, but the building commission, on the plea that the institution is not complete, has refused to turn it over to the state board of administration, which is to operate it and which is demanding to be put in charge at once. It is admitted, the hospital is practically complete.

"I am not saying which board is right," Governor Willis said, "but something should be done. The other state hospitals for the insane are overcrowded and there is demand for relief of this overcrowding by opening the new hospital. The buildings are erected, the store rooms are stocked with provisions, the cooks are on hand, there are beds for 600 patients, and the beds are made, yet this institution, the finest of its kind in the country, is standing idle and unused."

OHIO BRIEFS

Motorcyclist Killed.

Mansfield, O., June 22.—Waile Edward L. Quinn was trying to pass an automobile on a country road near here, the front wheel of his motorcycle struck a rut in the road. The motorcycle swerved into the automobile, throwing Quinn against the fender. His skull was fractured. He died at the hospital here several hours later.

Shoots Wife and Kills Self.

Cleveland, June 22.—Frank Kader shot his wife and killed himself. Mrs. Kader may die. Domestic trouble culminating in a suit for divorce filed by the wife recently is blamed.

The man who shaves himself and wants to make it a pleasure instead of a painful duty should use

Rexall Shaving Cream

Lathers freely and quickly; makes shaving easy and delightful. Try it once and you will never shave yourself again without it.

USE REXALL SHAVING LOTION

and your face will never get sore

BLACKMER & TANQUARY

Druggists.

The Rexall Store.

PYTHIAN SISTERS.

Regular meeting of Washington Temple No. 380, Tuesday evening, June 22, at 7:30 o'clock.

JANE A. GARDNER, M. E. C.
IDA C. GILLESPIE, M. of R. & C.

Red Cross Ball Blue, all blue, best bluing value in the world, makes the laundress smile.

"STAR—A Good Thing To Pass Along"

Men Who Chew Are Men Who DO

IN the big power plants, like those that harness Niagara Falls, and aid the progress of American manufacturing, we find men chewing—and they're chewing STAR.

And here's why men of big minds and big bodies chew and boost STAR: STAR plugs are thick—that means more of the rich, chewable inside for you. A thick STAR plug won't dry out like a thin plug and every STAR plug weighs a full 16 ounce pound. STAR is made clean and kept so.

Try STAR and you'll know why one hundred and twenty-five million 10c. pieces are sold each year.

16 oz.
Plugs

10c.
Cuts

STAR CHEWING TOBACCO

LEADING BRAND OF THE WORLD

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

ATTEMPTED TO COLLECT OLD RIFLES

Washington, June 22.—One of the men who has been most active in attempting to get from the United States government the 355,000 discarded Krag-Jorgensen rifles is J. D. Morgan of New York, who is known as a promoter and describes himself as an expert on heavy ordnance.

Mr. Morgan has been in Washington for several months, in the course of which he has prosecuted his effort to obtain these cast off firearms, for which fabulous prices are being offered by agents of the warring governments. He has been able to get into interviews with President Wilson but has failed to move Mr. Wilson, and his endeavors in that direction are now at an end.

Morgan came to Washington bearing a "to whom it may concern" letter of introduction from a purchasing agent in New York city, who is supposed to be buying war munitions for one of the allies. This purchasing agent acknowledged that Morgan had asked for this letter to help him in his effort to obtain these rifles.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Patriotic reasons alone, so he asserted, prevented him from disposing of his invention to any of the European belligerents, and it was this invention which led the president to grant a series of interviews to him that have now been terminated.

Morgan's proposal to swap his invention for the cast off war materials was made not only to the president, but to Secretary Garrison, with whom he talked. Officials of the war and navy departments have been willing to try out Morgan's "death dealing device," but they never have been able to obtain details which would enable them to pass judgment on it.

Morgan, who is said to have had an adventurous career, is totally blind and is usually accompanied by a young woman who answers to the name of Miss Lewis. So far as is known Miss Lewis is not related to Mrs. Selma Lewis of New York, who has figured in recent newspaper publications in regard to efforts to get the Krag rifles.

The purchasing agent in New York with whom Morgan at one time negotiated for the sale of the rifles is Walter R. Henzy. Mr. Henzy is understood to be buying war munitions for one of the allies. He acknowledged that he had negotiated with Morgan at one time for the rifles. He said he had been brought in touch with Morgan by two men, who represented that Morgan might be able to get the guns.

Morgan came to Washington bearing a "to whom it may concern" letter of introduction from a purchasing agent in New York city, who is supposed to be buying war munitions for one of the allies. This purchasing agent acknowledged that Morgan had asked for this letter to help him in his effort to obtain these rifles.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Hope awakens courage. He who can implant courage in the human soul is its best physician.

"I Don't Feel Good"

That is what a lot of people tell us. Usually their bowels only need cleansing.

Rexall Orderlies

will do the trick and make you feel fine. We know this positively. Take one tonight. Sold only by us, 10 cents.

Blackmer & Tanquary

THAW SANITY TRIAL IS ON

New York, June 22.—Harry K. Thaw's sanity trial by jury began to day in Justice Hendrick's part of the supreme court. It is predicted that the trial will last two weeks. The verdict will not be binding upon Justice Hendrick, since the function of the jury in such a case is purely advisory. Probably two days will be required in selecting twelve men from the panels of talesmen. Thereafter probably seventy witnesses will be called, of which number Thaw has subpoenaed about forty. Many of these are citizens of New Hampshire, where Thaw lived eighteen months after his escape from Matteawan and his eviction from Canada. These witnesses include public officials and business men with whom Thaw came often into contact and who are convinced that he is sane. He will also testify in his own behalf. Mrs. Mary Thaw, the prisoner's mother, will also be recalled.

DECISION CIGARS.

The new Broadleaf 5c cigar, biggest seller in Indiana, just introduced here, on sale at Rodecker's.

Home Merchants have it, no doubt.

OILS ANYTHING CLEANS, POLISHES EVERYTHING PREVENTS RUST EVERYWHERE

13-in-One has been for 18 years the Old Reliable, largest-selling home and office oil. It is light enough to oil a watch; heavy enough to oil a lawn mower. On a soft cloth it becomes a ideal furniture polisher. Makes a yard of cheese cloth the best and cheapest Dustless Dusting Cloth.

And 3-in-One absolutely prevents rust or tarnish on all metal surfaces, indoors and out, in any climate.

Free 3-in-One. Write today for generous free sample and the Dictionary of uses—book free to you. 3-in-One is sold everywhere in 3-size bottles: 10c (1 oz.), 25c (3 oz.), 50c (8 oz., 1/2 Pint or $1/2 Dollar). Also in patented Handy Oil Can, 25c (1/2 oz.).

3-IN-ONE OIL COMPANY

42 D BROADWAY

NEW YORK CITY

ALBERT R. MCCOY

Funeral Director and Embalmer.
Office 222 E. Court St. Bell Tel., office, 27; residence, 9R. Citizens, office, 27; residence 541.

WASHINGTON DAILY HERALD

THE HERALD PUBLISHING COMPANY.

W. W. MILLIKAN, President.

PUBLICATION OFFICE NO. 206 EAST COURT ST., OPP. POST OFFICE

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER.

Subscriptions: By Carrier 10 Cents a Week. In advance $5.00 for the year. By Mail and on Free Deliveries Cash in Advance $3.00 a year; $1.75, 6 months; $1.00, 3 months; 35c, 1 month.

ADVERTISING RATES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION.

Obituaries, memorial notices, resolutions and cards of thanks will be charged for at half rates, or 2½ cents per line of six words.

Entered as Second Class Matter, August 20, 1910, at the Postoffice at Washington C. H., Ohio, Under the Act of March 3d, 1879.

TELEPHONES—Home No. 137 Bell, Main No. 176.

The Defeat of the Russians

The defeat of the Russian troops in Galicia by the Germans and Austrians grows greater with the receipt of detailed information.

The Teutonic allies are driving the Russians away before them like chaff before the wind. Not content with having driven the force of the Czar back onto Russian territory the victors are now seeking to destroy the whole tremendous army and thus, at least until Russia can recruit, mobilize and equip another army, be freed of the menace and the actual danger of Russia on the east, leaving them free to battle with the allies on the west.

Providing the cost in men has not been too great the victories which the Germans and Austrians have won in the east should be of tremendous advantage to them in the campaigns to follow this summer in the west.

England and France are making every effort to send reinforcements and arms to Russia, but as yet, with the Dardanelles still closed, no way has been devised by which help can reach Russia. As long as Germany and Austria can keep their foes separated and strike them singly they hold a tremendous advantage, especially when fighting on the defensive.

The "Oleo" Frauds

According to the figures given out in Washington by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, the frauds perpetrated during the last decade by the Oleomargarine makers of the country have totalled a staggering sum.

It is estimated now by government officials that the national treasury has been defrauded of twenty-seven million dollars by these frauds. That total exceeds, probably, that of almost any fraud ever perpetrated on the revenue officials. Counterfeiting and whiskey frauds pale into insignificance beside the frauds recently brought to light.

Aside from the staggering sum total of the frauds the fact that one of the alleged participants—The Capital City Dairy Company, of Columbus—conducted its business close to this city, gives to the whole matter a peculiar interest.

Not many years ago "Oleo" was under the ban of the law and its manufacture and sale was either forbidden by law or by reason of its unpopularity with the consumers it did not find ready sale under its true name. For many years "Oleo" was sold really as contraband and under false pretenses.

Later on, under the direction and control of the pure food officials the manufacture and sale of substitute for butter was permitted and encouraged.

A tremendous market developed, but the revenue officials required payment of a tax.

With prosperity came the opportunity to perpetrate fraud on the government which had made "Oleo" popular, and the temptation was too strong for the manufacturers to withstand.

Now they must pay back to the treasury the sums they have obtained by fraud and perhaps some of the officials will be sent to prison.

The scandals involving the "Oleo" manufacturers has been the sensation of the past year.

Frank Sentence Commuted

Governor Slaton of Georgia, harkening to the requests of hundreds of thousands of petitioners in all walks of life and located in every section of the nation, on Sunday night commuted the death sentence of Leo M. Frank to life imprisonment.

There is no doubt that public sentiment throughout the country will support the action of Governor Slaton.

The request was for a commutation of sentence—not a pardon—and in urging that request so earnestly the hundreds of thousands of petitioners acted upon the belief that Frank had not had a fair and impartial trial.

The Governor of Georgia was not called upon to consider the question of Frank's guilt or innocence—the question as to whether or not the young Hebrew had been given the kind of a trial that was guaranteed to him under the constitution of the United States was the only one which confronted him.

The fact that the request of the petitioners was granted evidences that Governor Slaton concluded that Frank had not been fairly tried.

There is no doubt that the action of Governor Slaton will call forth a tremendous amount of adverse criticism and abuse, especially in his own state, where the feeling against Frank had developed into almost an insane frenzy.

Court after court appealed to to right the wrong and give to Frank a new trial found reason to refuse in the intricate legal formalities and it was left to the executive to prevent the "legal murder" of Frank which would have been a blot on the history of Georgia.

While the chief executive will be censured now, the people of Georgia, when sanity returns, will give him credit for having done right and for the courage to do what he thought was right.

The people of Georgia are fortunate in having Governor Slaton in office and they will soon acknowledge it.

Poetry For Today

HAVE DONE WITH FEAR.

Have done with Fear! He has not been your friend, Nor has he been your honest, outright foe. Who met you face to face and challenged you To draw your sword the better man to show.

For Fear has walked with you in friendly guise, Yet dragging back, retarding your advance; With poisoned weapon hidden in his sleeve, With furtive eyes alert for stolen chance.

Have done with Fear! Turn suddenly and sure To strike him down with final, fatal blow. March on alone. There skulks not at your heels That traitorous friend, your silent, stealthy foe.

—By Vlyn Johnson.

Weather Report

Washington, June 22.—Ohio: Partly cloudy Tuesday, probably showers along the lake; Wednesday fair.

For Indiana, Michigan, Tennessee, Kentucky and West Virginia — Fair Tuesday and Wednesday.

Illinois — Fair Tuesday; Wednesday probably fair in north and showers in south portion; not much change in temperature.

THE WEATHER

Observations of the United States weather bureau taken at 7 p. m. Monday:

	Temp.	Weather.
New York	70	Clear
Boston	68	Cloudy
Buffalo	66	Cloudy
Washington	72	Cloudy
Columbus	77	Clear
Chicago	78	Clear
St. Louis	78	Clear
Minneapolis	70	Cloudy
Los Angeles	70	Clear
New Orleans	92	Clear
Tampa	80	Cloudy
Seattle	72	Clear

Forecast.
Washington, June 22.—Indications for tomorrow:
Ohio—Fair.

ZAPATISTAS TO WITHDRAW

El Paso, Tex., June 22.—General Pablo Gonzales and his Constitutional army are beginning the entry to Mexico City, according to a Vera Cruz dispatch received by the Carranza agency here. It said: "General Gonzales entered the eastern suburbs and halted to allow his left wing to encircle the city on the south, and thus protect the capital's water supply at Xochimilco. The Zapata army is expected to withdraw to the west, evacuating the capital without serious fighting."

ZEPPELIN FLIES OVER HOLLAND

London, June 22.—A Rotterdam dispatch says that a Zeppelin was seen passing over Holland at a high rate of speed in the direction of England.

Strong Points

OF THE BUCKEYE STATE BUILDING AND LOAN COMPANY,
RANKIN BUILDING, 22 W. GAY ST., COLUMBUS, OHIO.

6. Safety of books and papers. Our books, records and mortgage securities are kept in the first really fire-proof business and office building in the United States. (See Fireproof Digest, New York, May 1912, and Building Management, Chicago, January 1913). Also the first to be furnished with all metal furniture. Assets $8,700,000. Five per cent paid on time deposits. Write or call for booklets.

Bits of Byplay

By Luke McLuke

Copyright, 1915, the Cincinnati Enquirer

Advice.

When things ain't going right with you, and you can't make them go, when business matters look real blue, and you fear bankruptcy; when cobwebs gather on your stock, and customers are rare; when all your assets are in hock, don't cuss and tear your hair. Just listen to this good advice and take it if you're wise: Give every article a price and then go advertise, and advertise from morn to night; don't overlook a day, and soon you'll see the world go bright, and things will come your way. Invest in good publicity, and fortune you will greet, and in a little while you'll be 'way up on Easy street.

Paw Knows Everything.

Willie—Paw, what are speaking terms?

Paw—Contracts for Chautauqua lectures, my son.

Luck.

This does will do you good, my boy. If you are not too dense: The only thing there is to luck is good hard common sense.

The Reason.

"My husband tells me that you fired him," complained Mrs. Rounder. "What was the matter with him?" "He was loaded," replied the boss.

The Wise Fool.

"Silence is golden," quoted the sage. "That's right," agreed the fool. "It costs something to keep a man's mouth shut."

Cheer Up!

You can be equal to the test. Just hustle and quit sighing; A fellow's bound to do his best If he is always trying.

Two Recent Legal Decisions.

Dentists are not physicians within the meaning of the statute which allows the sale of intoxicating liquor on Sunday on the prescription of a physician, and to hold otherwise would make toothache more welcome and prevalent than snake bite.

Wuff!

Dear Luke: Absence makes the heart grow fonder, Whisky makes the nose turn blue; Peroxide makes the hair turn blonder, But distance lends enchantment to the view.

K. P.

Why Birdie Gets Nothing but Boosts.

Musicians are agreed that the saxophone is an instrument out of which but few can get any real music, but Miss Birdie played it beautifully. She is a popular member of our most exclusive social set and is also noted for having once whopped a gentleman who did not appreciate her saxophone playing.—Pleasant Valley (Ark.) Palladium.

Names Is Names.

Cole Tarr lives at Mound City, Ill.

Things to Worry About.

Most of the Turkish tobacco is grown in California.

Our Daily Special.

Most of our obstacles are homemade.

Luke McLuke Says

Nothing seems funny to a girl after she has discovered that she wrinkles her nose when she laughs.

The man who takes his pay envelope home to his wife without opening it may be hanged. But he is seldom in line with the bunch that says "Good morning, Judge!" in the police court on Monday.

Father never notices how much the baby resembles its mother until it begins to hawl for things that it can't have.

A man is never so poor that he isn't willing to share his poverty with a woman by marrying her.

A court, even though it might know all the law part of the time and part of the law all the time, might not know all the law all the time.

Some people are so finicky that they will not embrace an opportunity until they have traced the pedigree of the opportunity and found out if it has been embraced before.

A reader wants to know the difference between an apartment and a flat. Why, about $25 a month. Ask us something hard.

Mother will go to the ten cent store and get a ten cent hammer, a ten cent saw, a ten cent chisel and a five cent screwdriver, and then she will get mad because father can't do a job of mending for which the carpenter wanted to charge her $4.50.

Other people often strike you as being cranky, don't they? Well, that is just what they are thinking about you.

When the bride sits down and sighs and wonders if she might not have done better the honeymoon beats it into the bathroom and begins frisking the shelves for the carbolic acid.

The less a woman's photograph resembles her the more she likes it.

The old fashioned lad who used to hunt for a white horse when he saw a redheaded girl now has a son who hunts for redheaded girls when he is riding in his white automobile.

HAVE YOU TRIED IT?

CLINE'S ICE CREAM

Our Ice Cream Sodas and Sundaes Are The Talk of The Town Since We Have Been Using This Cream Of

QUALITY
▲ Trial Will Convince You

Baldwin's Drug Store

Arlington House Block Both Phones 52

TEUTONIC HORDES ARE ADVANCING BECKER IS TO GET HEARING

New York, June 22.—Martin T. Mann, counsel for Charles Becker, will communicate with Governor Whitman in order to learn what form of hearing the governor will require in considering Becker's appeal for clemency. Becker's counsel are convinced after reading the interview with Governor Whitman gave out in Albany that the governor will give the condemned man a final chance to plead his case in person.

WIFE CHEWED TOBACCO IN BED

Huntington, W. Va., June 22.—Francis M. Egglest was granted a divorce from his wife, whom he accused in his petition of chewing tobacco in bed. Egglest was also given custody of the four children.

BLANK TAX FORMS HIT

Columbus, June 22.—Attorney General Turner sustained the contention of the Ohio Manufacturers' association that corporations need not fill out answers to various questions asked them on the blank forms furnished them by the state tax commission for making their returns of personal property. The attorney general held it to be optional with the officers of the corporation to make answers on the blanks, but they could be required to answer them if summoned to do so by the district assessor.

Some mothers teach their babies to talk and then expect them to keep still.—Indianapolis Star

A CLEAN SLATE

We specialize in the 7% Cumulative Preferred Stocks of sound industrial enterprises which we sell to 10,000 non-speculative investors. No client has ever lost a dollar of principal or income on investments purchased through us.

The Geiger-Jones Co

Investment Bankers, Canton, Ohio

Henderson & Wright

Fayette Co. Representatives

YOU CAN'T

You can't accumulate money without self-denial. Are you looking forward to the day when you will have all you now want and deluding yourself with the idea that you will then begin to accumulate money? That day will never dawn for you. Each day will bring a new want and if you continue to indulge in them your life will end in want. Indulgence today means for you future want, while self-denial today means future indulgence. Start a self-denial account today. Watch over it now and in the years to come it will watch over you.

Said a wise old Arab: "He that sleeps without supper gets up without debt."

Fayette County Bank

Hours 8:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m.

We pay 3 per cent. interest in our Savings Department or (Certificates of Deposit.)

COUNCIL HOLDS AN UNUSUALLY BUSY SESSION MONDAY NIGHT

Much Street Legislation Is Enacted and Bids for the Lighting of Streets Are Taken Up and Council Will Meet Business Men at Early Date—Petition to Pave Remainder of Rawling Street Is Presented—Other Business.

Quite a great deal of legislation, principally for street improvement, was enacted by council, Monday night, at a special session. All members were present and a score or more of visitors thronged the council chambers.

Member Howell was granted more time to investigate street sweepers, and a combined sweeper and flusher may be recommended.

Application for an extension of a sewer on Temple street, resulted in the sewer being ordered in, providing the ten who promised taps act accordingly.

Sheets, reporting for the Service Committee, stated that a conference with the county commissioners was held in connection with the Leesburg avenue paving, and agreement had been made to pave that part of the avenue outside the corporate limits not included in the paving ordinance submitted to council.

More time was granted on the Oak street sidewalks, the residents of that street asking that action be delayed for a short time.

An extension of the water mains a distance of two squares on Rose avenue, was recommended by the service committee and authorized by council.

Veall asked why water hydrants had not been placed on Harrison and Henkle streets as ordered. Service Director Gertsner replied that proper notice had been served on the water company, but no action had resulted.

A resolution declaring it necessary to pave Paint street from the D. T. & I. tracks to Lewis street, by using brick or other material, was read and passed under suspension of the rules. Howell suggested that the proposed Union station might make some of the paving unnecessary at the present time and P. Tracey remarked that in all probability the new street would be pretty well worn out by the time the union station is erected.

A resolution declaring it necessary to pave Columbus avenue, from Court street to the culvert near the northern corner of the old fair ground, was passed.

An ordinance to improve Yeoman street, from Ogle to Elm, by paving or macadamizing was defeated upon its passage when Howell and M. Tracey voted against it. Their action was due to the original petition asking for macadamizing of the street while various materials were mentioned in the specifications. Later M. Tracey moved to reconsider the action, and this was done, Howell still voting against it.

An ordinance to proceed with the improvement of South Main street, to pave from the Pennsylvania tracks to Elm street, and top dress the macadam street from that point south, was read and passed.

A petition from property owners on Rawling street, Delaware to Lewis, asking that the street be paved, was read and the engineer instructed to obtain specifications.

Upon motion by Howell a committee was named to prepare an ordinance to regulate the price of private electric lighting in the city. He stated that the old ordinance had expired. Howell, Veall and P. Tracey were appointed on the committee.

The bids for street lighting then were read, and after some argument as how best to deal with the proposals, Will Worthington, as chairman of the Dutch Treat Club, extended an invitation to council to meet with the business and professional men of the club, and discuss the proposals with a view to arriving at some definite understanding and agreement on the ornamental lights at least. The invitation was unanimously accepted.

Sheets stated that he had been informed by the service director that the new bill across Paint creek bottoms, had spread over several feet of land owned by private citizens and asked what action should be taken. After some discussion Solicitor Gregg was instructed to investigate and recommend the proper action.

Veall asked about the famous east end sewer, and what had become of the proposal to afford relief to that part of the city. It was stated that the affair was still in the hands of a committee.

Upon motion by M. Tracey the service director was authorized to urge Mr. Burke to repair the sidewalk in front of his property on S. Fayette street.

A motion by P. Tracey resulted in the Service Director being instructed to see Mr. Paul and have him to cut the weeds and clear away the brush on the Paul lot on East Market street. The service director was authorized to drain a pool which has been causing much annoyance on Peabody avenue. Council then adjourned.

Deep interest is being manifested in the several proposals of the Washington Gas & Electric Company to light the streets of the city for a period of five or ten years.

The present number of lights and rate per lamp per annum, is given below:

113 old arc lamps at $60 each per annum.

17 new arc lamps, at $65 per annum each.

The five proposals made by the Washington Gas & Electric Company for lighting the streets, are as follows:

Electric Incandescents for a period of ten years, commencing July 1, 1915, for all night and every night: 30 or more 80 candle power, $18.00; 150 or more 250 c. p., $38.00; 10 or more 400 c. p., $48.00; 20 or more 600 c. p., $60.00.

Moon Light schedule—30 or more 80 candle power, $17.00.

150 or more 250 c. p., $36.00; 10 or more 400 c. p., $45.00.

20 or more 600 c. p., $57.00.

Electric Incandescents for a period of five years, beginning July 1st, 1915, every night:

30 or more 80 candle power, $20.00.

150 or more 250 c. p., $43.00.

10 or more of 400 c. p., $53.00.

20 or more 600 c. p., $65.00.

Moon Light schedule—30 or more 80 c. p., $19.00.

150 or more 250 c. p., $39.00.

10 or more 400 c. p., $50.00.

20 or more 600 c. p., $62.00.

Ornamental lighting, or cluster lights:

Lighting for a period of five years—All material for installing wires underground complete and ready to light and maintaining the lights, fifty dollars each per annum.

Two of lights to be of 60 watts, to burn until ten p. m. One top light of 100 watt type to burn all night and every night.

If 100 watt lamps burn on moon light schedule and all dark hours, a reduction of five dollars per annum will be allowed.

Second proposition for ornamental lighting:

Light for a period of ten years; same as above specifications, $40 each per annum.

On moon light schedule, a reduction of four dollars per annum from above amount.

Third proposition for ornamental lighting:

Light for a period of ten years, 150 watt mazda lamps, single light standards, $40.00 per annum, or on moon light schedule, $35.00.

Five year contract: specifications same as above, $50.00 per light per annum.

Moonlight schedule $45.00 per annum.

Under the foregoing proposals both overhead and ornamental lights can be obtained, the overhead lights for all parts of the city where the ornamental lights are not installed. Property owners have the choice of selecting either the single globe or three globe standards where ornamental lighting is desired.

Councilmen are in possession of data on the lighting of Evansville, Ind., and Canton, Ohio, showing in Evansville the rate for the 600 c. p. lamps to be $45 and the 250 c. p. lamps $27, and in Canton $18 for the 100 c. p., $24 for the 200 c. p. and $26.50 for the 250 c. p.

TOP DRESSING FOR DEVALON ROAD

The state is keeping a careful eye on the Devalon Road, which was improved under the State Aid plan two years ago, and which is in need of an application of screenings or other similar material, and rolling.

The road improved was taken over by the state to be maintained by the state, and since that time it has been inspected frequently, and this spring it became apparent that there was need of a top dressing, the screenings originally placed upon the road having proven insufficient, and the road had become very rough.

Workmen are now engaged in paling washed gravel upon the road, and this will be spread and rolled and a light application of asphalt, or similar material will be added as a binder, and it is expected that the repairs will greatly lengthen the life of the road.

ONE CENT DAMAGES ALLOWED BY JURY

Acting under the instruction of the court the jury in the case of the American Seeding Machine Company against A. S. Glascock, assignee of Will E. Martin, returned a verdict of one cent damages in favor of the plaintiff.

The suit was to replevin certain machinery, and the jury, after being out just long enough to prepare the verdict, returned a finding that at the beginning of the action the plaintiff had the right of property and was entitled to possession of said goods and chattels in question, and we do assess its damages at the sum of one cent."

Logan represented the plaintiff and Chaffin the defendant.

UMBRELLA MENDER TO BE BURIED BY COUNTY

Herman Carstensen, aged about 45 years, picked up in Millwood a few days ago and taken in charge by the local authorities, passed away Monday afternoon, death being due to tuberculosis probably brought on by exposure.

The man's home was in Tripoli, Iowa, and a telegram to friends there brought the information that they did not want the remains, and they will be buried in the "potters' field" and the expenses defrayed by the county.

LAST OF FATED FAMILY IS BURIED

James Taylor, farmer, aged 62 years, last of a family of several brothers who have met violent death or died under peculiar circumstances was found dead in a corn field near his home east of Greenfield, a few days ago. The remains were interred at Greenfield Monday.

The man had evidently died of heart trouble, and was found beside his plow. Two of his brothers were murdered several years ago, and other members of the family have met violent deaths.

BOY SCOUT OUT ON LONG TRIP

Donovan Esthes, aged 14, of 338 Linden avenue, Dayton, reached this city before nine o'clock Tuesday morning and reported at the mayor's office, on his way to Huntington, W. Va.

He wore the uniform of a Boy Scout and was making the trip by bicycle, expecting to reach Chillicothe Tuesday evening. He left Dayton at 5:30 Tuesday morning. He carried a letter of introduction from Mayor G. W. Shroyer, of Dayton. He left this city shortly after noon.

SPECIAL SALE

RUGS AT CRAIG BROS.

WE HAVE Some specially priced Rugs to offer by reason of discontinuance of patterns by manufacturers. This is an occasion which happens only twice a year, and always affords a rare chance for Bargains. This time we have—

Whittall's Royal Worcester

RUGS 9x12 size, regular $37.50
price $47.00 at, special

Other specials in Wiltons at $27.50 $32.50

Velvet Rugs, 9x12 size at	$13.50
Axminster Rugs 9x12 size at	$14.75
Axminster Rugs $22.50 value at	$18.00
Axminster Rugs $25.00 value at	$21.75

Also Some Special Values In

Matting Rugs, 36x72,	55c
Axminster Rugs, 36x72	$2.85
Baroda Wool Rugs, 36x72	$2.25
Velvet Rugs, 27x54,	$1.75
Mottled Axminster Rugs 27x54	$1.35

These offers are for a brief period and those interested should come at once

Craig' Bros.

REALTY TRANSFERS

G. W. Howard and wife to French and Thomas, .29 acre, Jeffersonville; $200.

J. W. Howard and wife, to Chas. C. French, $\frac{1}{4}$ acre Jeffersonville; \$400.

Elizabeth McLaughlin to Jess W. Smith, lot 504 Bereman addition; $350.

Frank A. Barr by heirs to J. F. Adams, lot 307, Washington; $1.

M. C. Ortman et al to Ellen Allen, part lot 69, Washington; $1.

W. E. Smith and wife to Chas. R. Fiehthorn, 47 acres, Jasper township; $1.

Minnie Davis and husband to Jesse W. Miley, part lot 467, Washington; $1.00.

S. H. McAfee to Andrew McAfee, one-sixth acre, Staunton; $1.

Jess M. Miley and wife to Minnie Davis, lots 73 and 74, Washington; $1.00.

Wm. Scott by heirs to M. R. Scott, 40 acres Madison township; $1.

Olio Land Company to Minerva A. Neurantz, lot 80 Baker addition; $200.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Boys' Summer Camp.

Secretary Patton will make a trip to Bainbridge and surrounding country Wednesday with a view to finding a suitable location for the boys' summer camp.

Summer School Starts.

The Y. M. C. A. summer school started Tuesday morning with a good attendance. Secretary Patton announces that the registrations will close Wednesday evening.

CLASSIFIED

WANTED—Permanent homes in the country for girls and boys under 16 years of age. Apply at Probate Judge's Office.

WANTED—Anyone wanting vaults cleaned done, call Citz phone 2 and 14656.

Open-air Festival and Midway ON THE CITY'S ONLY BOULEVARD

Saturday evening, June 26, the Ladies' Gym Class will hold a Festival and Midway on the City's only Boulevard. Beside a large number of attractions an elaborate Supper Menu is being prepared and will be announced in a later edition of this paper. Every attraction on the street, and the open-air dining hall will be open at 4:30 o'clock. For a good time be on hand then and stay through to the finish.

The Ladies' Gym Class

Quick-Meal Gasoline Stoves

Are selling fast now. People are getting ready for the warm days that are coming, and it is a well known fact that we sell the best Gasoline Stove on the market for the smallest amount of money.

DALE

REFRIGERATORS

YOUTH HELD IN CONNECTION WITH B. & O. SHOOTING CASE

John Waldon, aged 20, was arrested Tuesday morning by Officer Baugh and B. & O. detective Kennedy at his home near Johnson's crossing.

A warrant prepared for his apprehension charges him with firing the three revolver bullets into B. & O. passenger train No. 106 as it crossed the Lewis pike intersection at 11 o'clock Sunday night. Fortunately he is being held in the county jail.

In Social Circles

The members of the First Baptist church will give a reception for their pastor and wife, at the church, Wednesday night, June 23, from 8 to 10.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Washington friends received invitations Monday, sent out by Mr. and Mrs. John E. Orbaugh for the marriage of their niece, Edith Hildebrand, to Rev. Eugene C. Prosser, at half past eight o'clock, Monday morning, July the fifth, at the All Saints church of Wilmington.

Miss Jane Saxton entertained Tuesday with an elaborate one o'clock luncheon, of exquisite appointments, in honor of Miss Priscilla Wood, of Wilmington, and her house party of O. W. U. students, also school friends of Miss Allen.

The guests included Miss Wood, Miss Pauline Hutchison, of Altoona, Pa.; Miss Elizabeth Burns, of Dayton; Miss Helen Harper, Mr. Dick Rector, of Columbus; Mr. Carl Freshwater, of Delaware, Mr. Marion Cardwell, of Louisville, Ky.; and Mr. Jesse Worley.

The table was lovely in colour de rose, with graceful center piece of pink roses, pink nut basket, the handles tied with pink tulle and the same color suggested in the place cards.

Miss Helen Harper is entertaining the same guests with a picnic supper at Sweet Briar Ridge tonight, the party motoring up to this delightful summer place, overlooking Deer Creek, late in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Clasgens, Messrs Winchell, Maynard and Robert Craig and Howard Harper were additional guests.

The following announcement cards were received with interested surprise by Washington friends Monday:

"Mr. and Mrs. John McCarty announce the marriage of their daughter Anna Elizabeth, to Mr. Morris

A False Report

The impression has been conveyed—we know not how, nor do we care—that we are not now using the same serum that has established our reputation as cholera expert.

Report comes to us that some unprincipled competitor has stated that we are not now using the serum originally used.

Beg to inform those who care that I have never changed; I recommend and use the same LIFE IMMUNITY SERUM (guaranteed) as always.

I am prepared, however, to use any commercial serum that the owner desires.

Depending on the serum used, the prices range from 40 cents to 65 cents per head, the latter price being for the serum that is guaranteed to immune FOR LIFE against hog cholera.

Neil B. Jones, V. S.

Prop. The Hog House

WASHINGTON C. H. O.

Miss Bess Shoop returned the first of the week from Waukegan, Ill., where she has been teaching during the past year. She was re-elected for the coming year, but has not yet decided as to her future plans.

Misses Hazel McCord and Marie Hughes, Zoe Colaw and Mahala McCoy, are attending the Athens summer school.

Mrs. G. C. Emmons arrived from Michigan the first of the week to spend a couple of weeks with her husband, Dr. Emmons.

Mr. J. A. Stout, a well-known farmer of Glendon, who operates the Armstrong land, has completed remodeling his residence, with large pillared verandah and other improvements. Painted white, with green shutters, and surrounded by an immense lawn and fine old trees, it is one of the most attractive country places of southern Fayette.

Marjorie Klever, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Klever, is visiting in Columbus.

Miss Lina Willis returns to Washington, D. C., Wednesday, to resume her philanthropical work, as superintendent of the Summer Camp of Associated Charities. Misses Prudence Culhan and Carrie Willis accompany her and will also engage in the same line of work during the summer.

Misses Opal Walker and Irene Duckwall have gone to Cincinnati to attend a picnic at Coney Island Wednesday. They will remain in Cincinnati and Kentucky for an indefinite visit with friends and relatives.

Mrs. Lossie Wells and daughter left Tuesday morning for Springfield where they will spend the remainder of the week with her sister, Mrs. C. E. Mitchell.

Mrs. J. W. Irish arrives Wednesday morning from Lincoln, Ill., to spend several weeks visiting her mother, Mrs. Jane Bryant, sister, Mrs. Frank Mayer, and brother, Mr. John Bryant.

Messrs Frank T. Worman and Roy H. Knoop of Troy are business visitors in this city.

Miss Ruth Teeters left Monday to enter the summer school at Athens.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Goldsbury are announcing the birth of a daughter Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Will D. Chaney returned Tuesday evening from a visit in Lima.

Mrs. Emily Slonaker and daughter who have been visiting Washington friends, left Tuesday for a visit in Wilmington before returning to their home in Los Angeles, Cal.

Mrs. G. A. Pavey and Mrs. Frank very were shopping visitors from Sabina here Tuesday.

Mrs. Ralph Gondert, of Akron, and Miss Florence Flynn, of Chillicothe, are the guests of Mrs. Oscar Kellhofer.

Mrs. Glen Foster, of Mt. Sterling, is the guest of Mrs. Jesse Persinger for the day.

Mr. Frank Snider is a business visitor from Xenia today.

Carl Pugsley, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pugsley, was taken to the Fayette Hospital Monday for special treatment.

SUMMER SCHOOL OPENS WITH ROLL OF TWENTY

The Y. M. C. A. summer school opened Monday morning with a student registration of twenty. The courses of the school will continue—morning sessions only—for six weeks.

The school is divided into three periods, as follows: First period—English and German; second period—history, algebra and Latin II; third period, civics and Latin III. School begins at 8 a. m.

Misses Amy Conn, Haidee Van Winkle and Jane Saxton comprise the teaching staff. The pupils were given their assignments Monday morning. School proper started Tuesday.

Mrs. Ralph Manley has returned from a visit with her mother, Mrs. J. R. Todhunter, at her country home.

Mr. Glenn McCoy is in East Palestine to act as best man at the wedding of an O. S. U. class mate, Mr. Robert Fleming, which takes place today.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT.

The Woman's Guild of the Presbyterian church will hold their weekly sale Saturday morning, June 26, at Barchet's Meat Market.

Buy Better at Washington Stores.

DEMONSTRATION

of Electric Heating and Cooking appliances at the Electric Shop, 224 E. Court street all this week. Open day and night. Come.

Mrs. Theo. Wisenberg and daughter Jane left Tuesday for their home in Cleveland, after a visit at the home of Mrs. Wisenberg's grandmother, Mrs. Anderson DeWitt.

Dressed AND A BIT OF FINERY MUSSED
That's Where A WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC IRON

smoothes out the wrinkles—no trouble — no hot work — no worry.
MISS FRUSH will demonstrate these appliances all this week.
THE ELECTRIC SHOP
224 E. Court Street

NOTES OF FISH AND GAME OUTING

Invitations have been sent out to all members of the Fayette Fish and Game Protective Association and the instant acceptances received point to a crowd that will number practically the entire membership. Inquiries made indicate that there may be others than members who desire to go and all such should file an application for membership with the Secretary, Henry Sparks, and thus be eligible. The society is in no sense exclusive, the main thing demanded being that a man have a love of the out-of-doors, the streams and fields, and a desire for the conservation of game and fish.

The sub-committees have all arrangements well in hand. Fife and Bob McLean will provide coffee for dinner and have lemonade on tap all day. The bait committee, Jim Hays and assistants, will guarantee the supply of minnows, crawfish and worms. Earl McLean who heads the Contest Committee has secured 500 clay pigeon targets for the trap shooting. This contest will be very popular, practically all of the former members of the Gun Club will enter. The Prize Committee has secured a liberal response to its request for trophies, and each one is worth winning. Geo. A. Robinson will award the prizes at the instance of the judges of each class.

Messrs Frank T. Worman and Roy H. Knoop of Troy are business visitors in this city.

Miss Ruth Teeters left Monday to enter the summer school at Athens.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Goldsbury are announcing the birth of a daughter Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Will D. Chaney returned Tuesday evening from a visit in Lima.

Mrs. Emily Slonaker and daughter who have been visiting Washington friends, left Tuesday for a visit in Wilmington before returning to their home in Los Angeles, Cal.

Mrs. G. A. Pavey and Mrs. Frank very were shopping visitors from Sabina here Tuesday.

Mrs. Ralph Gondert, of Akron, and Miss Florence Flynn, of Chillicothe, are the guests of Mrs. Oscar Kellhofer.

Mrs. Glen Foster, of Mt. Sterling, is the guest of Mrs. Jesse Persinger for the day.

Mr. Frank Snider is a business visitor from Xenia today.

Carl Pugsley, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pugsley, was taken to the Fayette Hospital Monday for special treatment.

Captain Hardway will furnish the regulation targets for the rifle shooting.

Clate Parrett will be the Information Bureau Official.

Residents along the Waterloo pike may look for the parade between 7:30 and 8:00 a. m.

Pleasant weather is indicated, but in case of rain, the spacious club house and verandas will furnish shelter.

An added contest to the program for the Fish and Game outing will be:

Contest 6B—Revolver or pistol shooting, and revolver any calibre, at 10, 15 and 25 yards. Three aggregate high scores qualify for final and shoot off at 25 yards. Ten shots at each target. Targets furnished, contestant furnishes own ammunition.

Prizes—First, donated by Wm. Hettelsheimer; Second by Flowers Bakery; Third by O. W. Brown.

MARSHAL LICENSSES

C. C. Taggart, of Jeffersonville, and Flossie Straley, of Jeffersonville, Rev. Doty.

ELECTRIC CANDY PARTY

tonight from 7 to 8 at the Electric Shop, 224 East Court St. Everybody is invited to attend.

The Colonial Theatre TONIGHT

"THE LOST HOUSE"

A Four-Reel Mutual Masterpiece
By Richard Harding Davis

5c

Admission

5c

THE PALACE THEATRE

Now showing CLEO MADISON in

Wild Irish Rose

A Romance of Killarney in Two Parts

'A Mixed-Up Elopement'

Nestor Comedy

Coming Thursday, June 24th at THE AIRDOME

Barbara Tennant in 'The Marked Woman'

A Shubert-Brady production in five parts. Benefit Picture for the Class in the Corner at Presbyterian Church.

Paramount Program every Wed. and Fri.

WONDERLAND

The Home of Good Pictures

TONIGHT

New Exploits of Elaine—Episode No. 16

The Cryptic Ring

The Police Dog

Single reel comedy

TOMORROW

The Ghost Breaker

A Paramount, featuring H. B. Warner, in five parts. MATINEE at 2:30.

MARGUERITE CLARK is coming

Wednesday, the 30th, in THE CRUCIBLE

H. B. DAHL BUYS TWIN-SIX PACKARD

TAKES JUDGMENT IN SUM OF $296.36

Jamison & Johnson have sold to Brooks Hughey, in Common Pleas Mr. H. B. Dahl a handsome twin-six Court, Tuesday afternoon took judgment in the sum of $296.36 against September. The big machine, one of Peter Brown, on a cognovit note is the most beautiful machines on the sued in January.

He Knew.

Teacher—Now, Harold, can you tell me what letter this is? Small Harold—No, ma'am. Teacher—You can't? Why, you certainly know what comes after T, don't you? Small Harold—Yes, ma'am; sister's beau.—Chicago News.

BEGINS WORK ON PAVING HIGHWAY

Contractors Mark and Van Gundt began work on the Jeffersonville pike improvement Monday, and will push the work to completion as quickly as possible.

Her Other Half.

Society Dame—Oh, doctor, I'm so sorely troubled with ennui. Doctor—H'm! Why don't you interest yourself in finding out how the other half lives? Society Dame—Gracious! Why I'm not looking for a divorce.—Chicago News.

GREAT VALUES IN UNCLAIMED FREIGHT

LOOK AT THESE

$7 Vacuum Cleaners for $3.00

Dr. Buck's Stock Powders

40c grade for : 25c lb

Six-gallon Barrel Churn $3.00

Watch This Space for Bargains

John J. Campbell

Citz, phone 2215. 334 W. Court,

WHO PAYS?

HOUSES of GLASS

by EDWIN BLISS

(Copyright, 1915, by Pathé Exchange, Inc. All Moving Picture Rights and all Foreign Copyrights Strictly Reserved.)

SIXTH STORY

Ray Norris' law office faced Willard Fall's engineering office directly across the court of the same skyscraper in the city. The two young men had become acquainted through their business proximity, invitations had been extended, calls exchanged, and the two families were in a fair way of becoming friends.

Ray Norris was a prosperous young attorney, clean cut, handsome, ambitious, and tenderly devoted to his wife. If her husband was tenderly devoted to her, she was infinitely devoted to him.

Mrs. Fall on the other hand was thirty-five; engrossed in her social duties, a self-imposed social monitor and guardian of the morals of her set, who was too busy with her many tasks to grow old gracefully. Her husband, well-groomed, suave and careless, was known as a lady's man, and already disquieting rumors were reaching his wife. On the morning on which our story opens, Mrs. Fall had seen him through the window, talking to a pretty society bud, and had sent the maid to call him back. There had been a scene and he had left for his office in a huff.

"To Miss Foster. How're you this fine morning? I hope your father is better?" It was Norris talking to his stenographer.

"Good morning, Mr. Norris. He's some better, thank you." She was trying to be brave, and answered with an attempt at cheerfulness that set her head pounding violently, and made her grasp at her desk for support. He had thrown off his light top coat, and without looking at her sat down, and was in a moment deep in his morning's mail. Some communication of more than ordinary importance caused him to stop in his envelope slitting, and he rose to confer with her upon its contents. Then for the first time he looked at her, and knew from her flushed cheeks and unnaturally bright eyes that something was wrong.

"Why, Miss Foster!" he exclaimed in genuine concern, "whatever's the trouble? You look like the very dickens. What's up?"

"Oh, nothing," she answered, trying to make light of his concern—"least wise, nothing that matters. Just a bothersome cold, and a little headache. By the way, is that that Smith & Holden letter? What's the latest development this morning? What did they say to your proposal to—"

"Never mind that for a moment. Don't we try to turn the conversation off into that channel. You're ill."

"I assure you, Mr.—" He made a quick gesture indicative of his intention not to be put off in his inquiry, and crossing quickly to where she stood, took her pale, thin hands in both of his, and noted with quick concern that they were burning.

"This will never do," he said gravely, and with emphatic earnestness. And he repeated half aloud, half to himself, "never never do. I'm afraid I've been a bit of a brute lately, what with the night work, Sundays, skimped lunch hours." He disregarded her attempt to assuage his self-reproach, and went on. "But I'll see to that. You're slated for a vacation, and that in short order. I'll make arrangements." He turned thoughtfully away, and went back to his letters.

Willard Fall, across the court in his office, had seen Norris cross to where Myra stood at her desk beside the broad window, and an evil smile lighted his coarse features as he noted Norris take Myra's hands in his and hold them the while he spoke solicitously to her. Devoid of concern for the welfare of his own help, he had not the finesse to attribute another's concern to anything other than a personal motive, and he felt a miserable elation at what he considered "Norris' little game." His reflections were disturbed by the slight, recurrent creaking of his door, as of someone trying cautiously, inch by inch, to open it unnoticed. He sprang from his chair, strode with swift soft steps to the door, pulled it suddenly open, and confronted—his wife.

He bowed with mock courtesy at her startled surprise at being apprehended, and spoke with more than his usual unction.

"So, my dear, spying on me, eh? Had I divined your coming, I might have made preparations so's not to disappoint your expectations."

She turned, and had started to go, when his voice again arrested her.

"Your idol seems to have clay feet. You indulge in the common fallacy of imagining that every man you have no intimate acquaintance with is a model of propriety. No one who is acquainted with your reputation as the watchdog of society"—here he grinned—"would ever believe you to be so frightfully unsophisticated. Why it was only a short while ago, when glancing casually out of this window and across the court, I saw Norris holding hands with his pretty stenographer."

Mrs. Fall recovered quickly from an involuntary expression of surprise, and casting a scornful, contemptuous glance at the man who justified his indulgences by calumniating another, turned and was gone.

Blindly, angrily, Mrs. Fall rushed from the building, and in Central Park, where she went for rest and air, she met Mrs. Norris. Forgetting that she lived "in a glass house," forgetting everything except that "misery loves company," she warned her against the pretty stenographer in her husband's office. By a few careless words the seeds of an awful suspicion were sown.

"All through, Miss Foster?"
"Yes, wearily, all through."
"Has that vicious headache left you?"

"No, it's still with me," she replied with the ghost of a smile. "It's been such a constant comrade, lately, I don't wonder but I would miss it were it to leave."

"That's a shocking state of affairs, certainly. Tell me, does your father seem too great a care, lately? Do you find it difficult to give your work your best attention, with the worry of his ailing health on your mind? You know,"—whimsically—"you're too great a necessity here for me to allow anything to distract you from your work."

Her face, flushed with fever as it was, beamed softly as he mentioned her father, and connected that word with "too great a care." Her father too great a care.

"Father a care?" she answered half interrogatively. "You don't know father, Mr. Norris. He is the one joy of my life. For years before I was old enough or able to work, he was father and mother to me. Up with the sun each morning, he saw to it that my clothes were brushed, my pencils sharpened for school—made a warm fire and prepared my breakfast. Then, off to the frightful bleach factory where he got his cough, and at work all day, and sometimes part of the night, that I might have a pretty hair-ribbon, or a pair of new slippers. All my youthful hopes, desires, troubles were poured into his willing ears at night, and he was ever sympathetic with the extravagant fancies of my flighty, childish imagination, and always gentle in his reproaches for my many faults. No, father's no care to me. It gives me pleasure each morning that I have strength to go out to work—that I am responsible for his comfort—and it lightens my weariness each night that I may go home and try to anticipate his every unspoken wish."

IV.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

"You love me, Ray?"
Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

ANSCO
CAMERAS & FILM

HERE'S Box
Buster Brown
the kids, and grown-ups, too.
akes a picture
3½ inches and sts only $2.
ther Ansco up
$55. We'd like to you the entire line.
ur photographic dement has established
ite a reputation for veloping, printing and lasing. Come in,
on't you?

DELBERT C. HAYS

WHO PAYS?

(Continued from Page Six.)

VI.

In awakening that morning, Norris was again visited with his dread of the previous day, that Ethel should hear of Myra's installment in his cottage before he had an opportunity to tell her. This troubled him so, that he ate no breakfast, but hurried to his office, trusting the exactions of his business to take his mind from the annoying thought. He had a violent headache by eleven o'clock, and attributing it to the fact that he had neglected his breakfast, went to an early lunch. That was why, when Ethel called him at 11:30, he was out. His lunch gave him immediate relief.

He bought an "extra" from a newsboy, folded it carelessly under his arm, and ascended to his office. As he threw the sheet on his desk it fell face upward, and the words "Attorney's Wife Is Co-respondent in Divorce Suit," staring at him in big black type stretched clear across the page. Maybe it was someone he knew. He took the sheet up and carefully read the sub-headings: "Mrs. Willard Fall (Fall," he gasped) charges she found Mrs. Ray Norris and Mr. Fall embracing—"

The sheet fell from his nerveless fingers and he swallowed hard a few times to moisten his throat and mouth, which had become suddenly dry. Then came a reaction from his nerveless un-realization; he felt a weak shaking throughout this whole body, and was conscious of his heart pulsing in great, uneven jumps. The monstrousness, the bold assurance of that staring type was incredible. It was hideous, foul. His wife and Fall! Why, they hardly knew one another!

The one event that distinguished the last few days from a year of happy, uneventful marriage was Ethel's insistent, hysterical demand to send Myra Foster away from his office. In explanation she had expressed an unwilling doubt (a doubt nevertheless) that his relations with the girl were all that they should be. He knew his relations with Myra Foster were simple, honest, businesslike, and that thought, combined with his wife's suspicion, suggested to him insidiously, but certainly, that her suspicion of him might be but a blind for her relations with Fall. Good God, what a hideous thought! He picked up his phone receiver, clicked the hook nervously many times, and after what seemed an unusual wait, was connected with his home.

"Hello, Mrs. Norris, please. This is Mr. Norris."

"Mrs. Norris is not in, sir. She left full an hour and a half ago, and left word she had gone to the beach cottage. Yes. Good-by."

She had gone to the beach—a place he could never prevail on her to visit! Why? Had she heard of Myra Foster being there? He knew gossip could travel as fast, and faster, than that. But, if she were using his relations with Myra Foster as a blind to cover her own affairs (this damnable thought kept persisting), if she were, was it possible that she would have the temerity to seize on Myra's presence in the cottage as a justification of a suspicion she knew to be false? He cursed himself for his vile suspicions. But she had gone to the beach—if not for that, then for what?

The thought of Fall then entered his mind and took his whole attention, and he glanced hastily, searching across the court to see whether he was in his office. If this frightful thing were true—His lips met in a long, hard seam as he unlocked the bottom drawer of his desk and without looking hastily withdrew something and slipped it into his pocket. He rose, desperate, and leaving his office, crossed to Fall's.

Fall was not there. He questioned the porter.

"When will Fall be in?"

"I don't know, Mr. Fall left word he had gone to the beach, but didn't leave no message when he'd be back again."

Ray started, shocked at the advice that Fall had gone to the beach. He said "all right" in a preoccupied voice that seemed even to him not to have emanated from his own throat, and walked unsteadily away. "A sorta quiet, wild look," as the porter afterwards told, "on his face." It was all very clear to him now—her subtle trickery under the mask of "injured innocence"—Fall with his unspeakable reputation—their discovery in a compromising position by Mrs. Fall, and the resultant divorce suit—and now both of them together at the beach!

Had the insanity which now possessed him taken a violent form he might have been apprehended and prevented from doing any harm; but it was visible only in his crafty eyes and unnaturally quiet bearing as he jumped into his auto and started for the coast.

Fall had seen the "extra" before Norris, and his wife's drastic action had made him suddenly afraid. He "slipped from every flower" and recked not the cost; but this thing copied by all the papers throughout the land, might, and very probably would, ruin him.

He took an early train for the beach, where he endeavored to placate his wife and make her withdraw her charge; but she had ceased to think of him as a positive quantity, and was unmoved by his appeals.

When Ethel arrived she went straight to her cottage, which she found deserted. Myra and her father had gone to the shore. She drew in her breath sharply as her anxious eyes, after searching the living room for signs of its new occupant, fell on a large, floppy straw hat hung carelessly on a chair. She picked it up and examined it eagerly, her essential feminine blinding her for the moment to its indication, and causing her to wonder what he could see in that; then realizing its significance she dashed it fiercely to the ground and started for the beach. She walked quickly, tirelessly in the soft sand, and was startled when, after a sharp turn round a ledge of rock, she came upon Willard Fall. He was sobered by his wife's refusal to listen to his entreaties, and was as dejected as his trivial nature would allow. He lifted his hat.

"Good afternoon, Mrs. Norris. Thought you didn't like the seashore."

"Howdyedo, Mr. Fall. Oh, I come down occasionally."

"I've wanted ever since that frightful day, to let you know how sorry I am that you should have been placed in such an unfortunate position."

He said nothing, however, of the divorce suit, thinking she must already know. She wanted to be rid of him—wanted to fly on wildly—wanted to find them—wanted and feared to—feared every step that took her eager, urgent feet further and further along the limitless stretch of beach. He kept on talking, solicitously trying his utmost to assure her of his regret.

Racing, careening madly down the beach came Norris' auto, its flying wheels sending up a swirl of sand in their wake. It stopped within a few yards of them, and Norris, a strange, wild expression on his face, jumped out. He had seen them half a mile off, and the sight of them together changed his crafty, quiet look to one of terrible rage. Dashing wildly up to where they stood, he thrust the frightful headline under Ethel's eyes, his face twitching in frightful contortions.

"Is it true? Is it true? Is it—" he gurgled chokingly.

Ethel's eyes took in the glaring headline, and followed down to the subhead. She started back, gasping, realizing fully that what she had dreaded had come to pass—that he had learned from another source what she had not the courage to tell him—that he had doubted her as she him—that it was all a hideous misunderstanding ted on by gossip—and that the man before her was a raving maniac.

Norris Kills Fall and Slimy Scandal Claims Its Victim.

Fall had edged off. But Norris, watching her, needed no answer, her startled gasp as she shrank back convicting her utterly.

His hand went deep in his pocket, and when he wheeled and raised his arm there was a short sharp flash, and Fall dropped in the sand. He rose, and with faltering steps started like a drunken man toward a cliff overlooking the sea. Stumbling, falling, desperately rising, he made his way up through the rocks to the cliff's top, as Ethel wrestled frantically with the madman before her.

He broke loose from her clutching fingers, and again raising his arm, pointed it toward the cliff's summit where Fall tottered. Another shot—a sickening splash—and the softly lapping, halcyon waters of the Pacific closed over the dead body of Willard Fall.

Slimy scandal, born of doubt and misunderstanding, had come into its own.

Lives were ruined; lives were ended. Because a woman couldn't hold her tongue the penalty was paid—paid paid.

WHO PAYS?
End of Sixth Story.
The next story is: "Blue Blood and Yellow."

See these Pictures every Wednesday night at Colonial Theatre.

Want to rent a house?—Want Ads?

SAMUEL'S "THREE-P" FOR INDIGESTION

Best remedy on the market today. Eat what you want—take a Samuel's "3-P" Capsule and there will be no more sour, gassy, upset stomach.

Blackmer & Tanquary

Frank Christopher

ANGELES IS ENVOY OF PEACE

Washington, June 22.—General Felipe Angeles, who has been General Villa's principal military expert since the split in the Mexican Constitutionalist movement, is en route to Boston. He denied there had been any break between himself and Villa. Tals was asserted also by representatives of General Villa in Washington, including Enrique C. Llorente, Villa's special agent, and a close personal friend of Angeles.

Although disclaiming any official knowledge, Villa's spokesmen intimated that Angeles had been commissioned to discuss peace plans with the Washington government and that some of the leading supporters of General Carranza, including Obregon and members of the Carranza cabinet, whose resignations have been accepted, were cognizant of efforts to be made for a solution of Mexican difficulties.

General Carranza, who has thus far declined to accept Villa's offer for a conference to devise a plan for re-establishment of constitutional government, formally notified his Washington representative that reports of a break between himself and Obregon were without foundation. Notwithstanding this, however, officials here were inclined to the belief that Obregon and other Constitutional leaders, who thus far have stood with Carranza in his uncompromising attitude, were now ready to talk of peace negotiations.

The resignation from the Carranza cabinet of Raphael Zubaran, Jesus Urueña and Escudero Verdugo, friends of Obregon, were regarded in official quarters as particularly significant, in view of Carranza's refusal to consider Villa's appeal for a conference. Consideration of Cruz reported to the state department that Carranza had accepted these resignations, together with that of Luis Cabrera, minister of finance. Carranza's agents here, however, insisted that the general had not accepted Cabrera's resignation and that he had assumed that Cabrera would remain in the cabinet.

Advices to the department regarding General Angeles said he had come to the United States to visit his family. Department officials had no hesitancy though in saying they expected the Villa chieftain to come to Washington in the near future.

Washington officials still view the Yaqui uprising and perils of foreigners in the Yaqui valley with considerable concern, and are awaiting reports from Rear Admiral Howard, who arrived at Guaymas on his flagship Colorado to afford protection to foreigners in the valley. It is known that Mexican General Maytorens is determined to handle the situation, if possible, in order to avert the possibility of American marines from Admiral Howard's flagship marching inland against his protest.

They Help in a Way.
"Riches are not everything," declared bitterly the poor, but honest, suitor, who had just been rejected. "They cannot insure happiness."

"Perhaps not," replied the practical maiden, "but they at least provide means to pay the premiums on the policy!"—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Inappropriate Garb.
"How are you coming along with your new magazine, the Society Girl?"
"All right. But the mailing proposed

Classified Advertisements

The People's Column

RATES PER WORD.

1 time in Daily Herald.....	1c
6t in Herald & 1t in Register...	3c
12t in Herald & 2t in Register...	4c
26t in Herald & 4t in Register...	6c
52t in Herald & 8t in Register...	10c

Additional time 1c per word per week

Minimum charges: 1t, 15c; 6t, 30c

FOR RENT.

FOR RENT—Part of house at 117 N. North street.	142t6
FOR RENT—4-room house, growing garden, $7. Dalbey & Hitchcock.	142t6

FOR RENT—One large furnished room for one or two persons. Mrs. S. F. DeWees, W. Court street.	141t6
FOR RENT—House on N. North street, 6 rooms, bath, store room, water, gas, newly painted, papered, $14. Key at Mrs. Kimball's.	142t6

FOR RENT—House of 5 rooms; good well and cistern, on Third St. Inquire of F. C. Mayer, Citz. phone 768.	139t6
FOR RENT—Both sides of double house on E. Temple street; gas all over house. Sinks and water in kitchens. Would like to have two small families agreeable to each other. Chas. U. Armstrong.	136t6

FOR RENT—House of 6 rooms; all modern conveniences. Florence Ogle, Citz. phone 133.	135t6
FOR RENT—About May 20, half new house 5 rooms and bath; good location; good yard, $12.50. Inquire Bentz's Grocery.	113t6

FOR RENT—Half of double house on Washington Ave. Modern in every respect. Citz. phone 4719. 89t6	422t6
WANTED—To buy, a mowing machine. Call Citz. phone 178.	141t6

WANTED.

WANTED—To buy, a mowing machine. Call Citz. phone 178.	141t6
WANTED—To rent, a farm of 100 to 150 acres, on thirds. Emery Talkington, Washington C. H., O. 143t6	143t6

WANTED—Boarders and roomers, Mrs. Temperance Groves, Fayette and Paint streets. Bell phone 422t6	142t6
WANTED—Hair switches to make and repair. Reasonable prices. Mrs. Steele, Bell 396w1.	141t6

LOST AND FOUND.

LOST—Lady's leather purse containing a door key and between $1.50 and $2.00 in money. Finder can keep change by returning purse to this office.	145t6
LOST—Bunch of keys with magneto wrench; finder return to Lon Stevenson.	144t6

As a training school for married life the diplomatic service should not be overlooked.	144t6
When military "experts" give it up it's time to admit that war isn't what it used to be.	144t6

SENATOR PHELAN SUBMITS REPORT

GOPHER SMITH IS TAKEN AFTER AN ARDUOUS CHASE

Farmers and Workmen Join Police in Pursuit Over Fields and Through Timber Which Lasts More Than an Hour—Captive Admits That He Was Worn Out, the First Time in His Notable Career.

"Gopher" Smith, Washington's blue ribbon sprinter and all-around police character, is again viewing the world through the barred windows of the county jail, and before him looms a term in the Mansfield reformatory.

For the first time in his long and successful career consisting chiefly of "running away" from the law, Gopher Smith Monday afternoon was literally "run to earth," in a chase covering several miles of ground and of more than an hour in duration, in which at least a dozen farmers and workmen joined.

Smith will be taken before the mayor, probably Wednesday, to answer to a charge preferred by Willard Johnson of assault with intent to kill.

Johnson appeared before the mayor Monday morning and swore out a warrant for Smith, whom he alleged assaulted him Sunday night, beating him about the head with a brick in the process. For sometime the police have been looking for Smith on account of his attempting to interfere with Officer Baughn in the arrest of Ray Smith, a brother, a week ago.

Chief Moore and Officer Baughn started out to hunt for Smith, after receiving a "tip," about 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. About 2 o'clock they located him, hiding among some weeds along the B. & O. right-of-way near the handle factory. Smith saw the police as soon as they saw him and as they were still some distance from his he "lit out."

Several employees from the handle factory, witnessing Smith's break for freedom, joined the police in the pursuit. Gopher, as the police describe it, simply "flew" over a fence along the right-of-way and started across a field in a southerly direction, going as near as could be estimated, about 60 miles an hour.

THINGS DOING AT THE MOVIES

WONDERLAND.

"The Cryptic Ring" is the title of the mysterious Elaine installment at the Wonderland Tuesday. The new series, with Wu Fang as the chief disturber, started last week and has attracted a great deal of attention.

"The Ghost Breaker," a Lasky picture of the Paramount program, is scheduled for Wednesday. This play features H. B. Warner and is a collaborative story by Paul Dickey and Charles W. Goddard.

Friday the Wonderland has a Charles Frohman Paramount pro-

"The Marked Woman" is starred by Barbara Tennant and is a five reel Schubert.

COLONIAL.

Richard Harding Davis, famous author and newspaper man, is the author of a photoplay to be shown at the Colonial Tuesday, entitled "The Lost House." The picture is a four reel and ranks among the choice Mutual Masterpiece releases.

"Houses of Glass" is the name of the Wednesday installment of the popular "Who Pays" series of subjects on vital questions of life. These pictures have proved a big drawing card at the Colonial.

"She Stoops to Conquer" is a Mutual four reel for Friday and is a direct adoption from the famous stage success of that name.

Lip Reading Detectives.

In a Vienna school for the deaf and dumb, where lip reading is taught, a course has been established for the special purpose of teaching the art to detectives. The possibilities of lip reading, says the author of the account in the Volta Review, have been exaggerated. But they are sufficient to cause authorities to think the instruction of detectives worth while. When a detective becomes proficient, he is able to learn something of the conversation between people who are visible, but out of earshot. The article says that at from 50 to 100 feet it is possible for an expert to get the general run of a conversation. Some reading has been done with glasses at a distance of 125 feet. Instruction and practice in the art must be very thorough if the detective is to use it to real advantage in his work.

In Hard Luck.

"Here's a bride sues for divorce three days after marriage."

"Gee, it's tough to start a guy paying alimony the first week." — Louisville Courier-Journal.

Deserved Tribute.

"You see, we have done everything possible to preserve Plymouth Rock."

"And I don't blame ye. New England owes a heap to that breed of hen." — Kansas City Journal.

Markets

Close of Markets Today

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Chicago, June 22.—Hogs—Receipts 16,000—Market steady—Light workers $7.50@7.90; heavy workers $7.15@7.80; pigs $6.25@7.50.

Cattle—Receipts 2,000—Market strong—Native steers $6.85@9.50; western steers $7.00@8.25; cows and heifers $3.25@9.00; calves $8.50@9.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts 7,000—Market firm—Sheep, natives $5.50@6.40; lambs, natives $6.75@9.25; spring lambs $6.25@9.90.

Pittsburgh, June 22.—Hogs—Receipts 1,500—Market active—Yorkers $8.10@8.15; pigs $7.50@7.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts 3,000—Market steady—Top sheep $6.35; top lambs $9.75.

Calves—Receipts 200—Market steady—Top $9.75.

GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, June 22.—Wheat—July $1.01 1/4; Sept. 99 3/4.

Corn—July 72 3/4; Sept. 72 1/2.

Oats—July 43 3/4; Sept. 38.

Pork—July $16.77; Sept. $17.22.

Lard—July $9.35; Sept. 9.62.

THE LOCAL MARKET.

Corrected Daily at 3 P.M.

Wheat	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Prices Paid for Produce.

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

Hens	10c
Eggs	17c
Butter	2c
Potatoes	70c
Lard	10c

Cattle	$1.08
Corn	70c
Oats	50c

THE WEATHER—Fair tonight and Wednesday

WASHINGTON C. H., OHIO, TUESDAY, JUNE 22, 1915

Ten Cents a Week

VOL. 30 NO. 146

128 PROMINENT INDIANA POLITICIANS ARE INDICTED

Tom Taggart, Democratic National Committeeman, Mayor Bell and Chief Perrott, of Indianapolis, Among the Accused.

SENSATION SPRUNG IN INDIANA CAPITAL BY COUNTY GRAND JURY

Conspiracy in Elections, Bribery and Blackmail Among Counts Included in Blanket Indictment of 176 Typewritten Pages—Recent Exposures at Terre Haute Believed Responsible for Great Shake-up Among Politicians of Three Parties

By Associated Press.
Indianapolis, June 22.—An indictment charging election conspiracy was returned against more than 100 persons, including some high in party councils, by the Marion county grand jury here today.

The charges are based on the election of November 3, 1914, the registration of last September and October and the primary of May 5, 1914.

Thomas Taggart.

Who, With 127 Other Prominent Indians, Were Indicted Today For Election Frauds.

Thomas Taggart, Democratic national committeeman for Indiana, Mayor Joseph E. Bell, Chief of Police Samuel Perrott, Fred Barrett, city attorney and Democratic county chairman, Robert Metzger, former chief of police and Republican member of the Board of Safety and Frank P. Baker, former county prosecutor, are among the more prominent men indicted.

All the men—Democrats, Republicans and Progressives—are named in a single indictment, which contains 48 counts and covers 176 typewritten papers.

The main charge is conspiracy to obtain his freedom by means of peremptory felonies by corrupting the habeas corpus, but was the first in which his plea was heard by a jury. State Department dispatches.

The jury is to act as an advisory body and not trial jury, and the judge is not bound by its findings.

The prosecution is reported to be anxious to find Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, to call her as a witness. Thaw's mother, brother and sister, Mrs. George Carnegie, are expected to attend the trial.

Thaw was so confident of success that he was planning to attend the Panama-Pacific exposition.

HAITI HAS ANOTHER ONE

By Associated Press.

Washington, June 22.—New revolutionary activities in Haiti today caused the Navy Department to order Rear Admiral Caperton and the cruiser Washington, now at Vera Cruz, over to Cape Haitien with 700 bluejackets and 200 marines. The French cruiser Descartes already has landed bluejackets there.

ALL QUIET IN GEORGIA DURING DAY

By Associated Press.

Atlanta, Ga., June 22.—While the militia still was on guard today, there was no indication of a repetition of the exciting scenes of yesterday and last night, which followed announcement of the commutation of Leo M. Frank's death sentence.

VILLA PROMISES 1500 MEN FOR PROTECTION

Conference Aboard U. S. Cruiser Off Guaymas Ends in Agreement Which Will Insure Safety of Americans in Yaqui Valley, Where Situation Is Desperate—Landing of Marines Might Be Misunderstood, Argues Mexican Commandant.

By Associated Press.

On Board the U. S. S. Colorado, off Guaymas, Sonora, Mexico, by wireless to San Diego, Cal., June 22.

Fifteen hundred Villa troops under General Sosa, were promised as protection for foreigners in the Yaqui valley at a conference aboard the warship Colorado today between Admiral Howard, commanding the Pacific fleet, and his staff and General Leyva, military commandant at Guaymas.

General Leyva said the landing of American marines might be misinterpreted by the masses of the Mexican people.

Washington, June 22.—Conditions in the Yaqui valley, where the United States is faced with the possibility of landing forces to protect the settlers against raiding Indians, are described as desperate in today's State Department dispatches.

This was Thaw's fourth attempt to obtain his freedom by means of habeas corpus, but was the first in which his plea was heard by a jury. State Department dispatches.

The jury is to act as an advisory

In the city the near-beer saloons closed by the authorities yesterday were allowed to reopen this morning and there were no crowds in the streets.

At the governor's home it was stated that the militia probably will be withdrawn tonight.

Officials of the state and city insisted that last night's demonstration probably had ended the possibility of any menace to the governor by the people most bitterly opposed to the commutation of Frank's sentence. A state of preparedness was maintained, however, both by the police and military authorities.

So far as could be learned an arrangement had been made for an organized protest against the governor's action.

Reports from Milledgeville say the strain of the last few days has almost completely unnerved Frank.

SUBMARINES ARE ACTIVE

By Associated Press.

London, June 22.—Four more vessels have been sunk by submarines and in the case of one of them, the British steamer Carisbrook, 13 men of the crew are unaccounted for.

The Carisbrook, which was engaged in trans-Atlantic trade, was sunk by gunfire from a German submarine.

A Turkish steamer and two Turkish sailing vessels were torpedoed in the Black Sea by Russian submarines.

WILL FLOAT FRENCH LOAN

By Associated Press.

New York, June 22.—J. P. Morgan & Company announced late today that arrangements have been made by them and the Rothschilds of Paris for the flotation in this country of a new French loan, the amount of which it was impossible to state at present.

From an unofficial source it was learned that the amount of the loan probably would be under $50,000,000, and that the interest would be about 5 per cent.

OHIO GIRL IS HELD AS SPY

By Associated Press.

Urbana, O., June 22.—Anna Hoffman, aged 37, daughter of Mrs. Kate Brunotte, of this city, is under arrest in England as a German spy, it became known today when her sister here received a letter from Miss Hoffman, asking assistance in securing her release. An appeal has been made to acting Secretary of State Lansing.

Nothing but a sudden and unexpected blow can now save Lemberg for the Russians. After yielding the Grodek lines, the Russian army retired to virtually the outskirts of the city itself.

London, June 22.—Berlin advises

the Russians have been defeated

all along the line in front of Lemberg and are now fighting for time to save their guns and other war material.

Some reports say the fall of Lemberg is expected in a day or two.

In Alsace there was heavy fighting along the valley of the Fecht, and the French assert their lines were pushed further northward. The Germans claim to have transferred their positions to the eastern bank of the river.

Dunkirk, on the French coast, was bombarded yesterday by a long-range

German gun and several civilians were killed.

Berlin, June 22.—An Overseas

News Agency dispatch says the armies of six German generals, including Mackensen and Linsingen, are shelling the Russian main positions near Lemberg.

London, June 22.—Wireless dispatches from Berlin represent the battle which has been in progress for some time in the vicinity of Arras, northern France, as one of the greatest conflicts of the war, which may decide the fate of France.

Losses of both the Germans and the allies are described as fearful.

It is reported that an American mining engineer had been killed by Mexicans at Monterey.

One settler, who arrived at Nog-

FALL OF LEMBERG MATTER OF HOURS

Evacuation By Russ Already Under Way While Infantry Cleverly Covers Retreat.

ARMIES OF SIX GERMAN GENERALS ARE HAMMERING RUSS LINES OUTSIDE CITY

Great Retreat Is Under Way—Renewed Activity in Dardanelles—Fearful Carnage in Alsace—French Make Marked Gains—German Government Orders Suspension of Berlin Paper Which Published Note Tending to Widen Breach Between Germany and U. S.

By Associated Press.

Berlin, via wireless to Sayville, L. I., June 22.—An announcement made today by the Overseas News Agency says that the Russians before Lemberg have been defeated along their whole line and are fighting only to gain time, in order to save their artillery and other war material.

The Germans and Austrians are within 10 miles of Lemberg, the announcement adds.

Athens, June 22.—Great activity is reported in the allied fleet at the Dardanelles, from which it is assumed that a general attack on the straits is planned. Fighting on the Gallipoli peninsula is being carried on vigorously.

Berlin, June 22.—The German authorities today informed the administration of the Berlin Tagess-Zeitung that it would have to suspend publication for an indefinite period, on account of the recent articles published in this paper on the subject of German-American relations, from the pen of Count von Reventlow.

The governments prompt action in suspending the Tagess-Zeitung is but one of many indications that responsible statesmen are eagerly desirous of finding a common ground for an understanding with America.

OHIO GIRL IS HELD AS SPY

By Associated Press.

Urbana, O., June 22.—Anna Hoffman, aged 37, daughter of Mrs. Kate Brunotte, of this city, is under arrest in England as a German spy, it became known today when her sister here received a letter from Miss Hoffman, asking assistance in securing her release. An appeal has been made to acting Secretary of State Lansing.

Miss Hoffman was employed in a hotel in London when arrested, and says the authorities excused their action on the ground that she was known to be of German descent.

GEN. DE WET SENTENCED

By Associated Press.

Bloemfontein, Union of South Africa, June 22.—A sentence of six years imprisonment and a fine of 2,000 pounds ($10,000) was imposed today on General Christian De Wet, one of the leaders of the South African rebellion against the British government, who was found guilty yesterday of treason on eight counts.

DENOOUNCE ACTION OF GOVERNOR

Atlanta, Ga., June 22.—The action of Governor Slaton in commuting the sentence imposed on Leo M. Frank for the murder of Mary Phagan has stirred Atlanta and Georgia to white heat. Indignation meetings are being held in many towns, at which resolutions denouncing the governor are being adopted. At Marietta, where Mary Phagan was born and buried, Governor Slaton has been hanged in effigy. Following a great mass meeting at which Slaton was bitterly denounced, a life sized dummy was suspended from a telegraph pole in the public square with this inscription, "John M. Slaton, King of the Jews and Georgia's traitor governor."

The governor was also hanged in effigy at Woodstock and other places. Turbulent crowds have marched through Atlanta's streets denouncing the governor, but there has been no approach to rioting. Only five arrests have been made, and these were for disorderly conduct. All the police reserves have been out, however, and the city authorities closed all the near-beer saloons and the locker clubs.

The most striking demonstration occurred at the capitol, where several thousand people gathered and yelled, "We want John M. Slaton." The crowd did not find the governor, however, for he did not leave his home. The crowd, after hearing denunciatory addresses from the capitol steps, invaded the capitol and held meetings in the house and senate chambers, at which resolutions denouncing the governor were adopted.

The tenor of the resolutions is that Governor Slaton has destroyed trial by jury and broken down the courts of Georgia.

Governor's Statement.

"All I ask is that the people of Georgia read my statement and consider calmly the reasons that I have given for commuting Leo M. Frank's sentence to life imprisonment," said Governor Slaton. "Feeling as I do about this case, I would be a murderer if I allowed that man to hang. I would rather be plowing in a field than to feel for the rest of my life that I had that man's blood on my hands."

The governor discussed with reporters some of the points which led him to commute the sentence when he was making public his formal statement. He showed a remarkable familiarity with the record, and when reporters remarked the fact, said: "I have learned that record almost by heart. Mr. Dorsey himself, I don't believe, is more familiar with the record than I am."

The governor is positive in his statements indicating that all doubt of the guilt of Conley and the innocence of Frank has been removed from his mind by his careful study of the facts of the case. The governor's decision, which makes about nine ordinary newspaper columns, is a thorough review of the case from the beginning.

Frank has commenced his term of life imprisonment on the Georgia state prison farm at Milledgeville, where he was secretly taken immediately after the governor had announced he had concluded to commute the death sentence. Workmen in the Atlanta county jail are taking down the scaffold on which Frank was to have been hanged between 10 a. m. and 3:30 p. m. today. By so narrow a margin did he escape the noose.

Mo Threatens Governor.

With several hundred men and boys clamoring to get into the front gates of his country home on Peachtree road, which had been barricaded with barbed wire entanglements, and threatening to overpower twenty county policemen armed with riot guns, Governor Slaton called out the militia for protection.

Four companies of militia responded. When the soldiers lined up with fixed bayonets to disperse the crowd, stones, bricks and bottles were thrown at them. A brick struck Lieutenant Arnold Parker in the stomach and rendered him unconscious. The mob soon afterward dispersed.

The governor proclaimed martial law in a district extending half a mile in front of his home, half a mile back and for a distance of a quarter of a mile on either side.

BRITISH WARNED TO AVOID MEXICO

London, June 22.—The official press bureau issued the following statement: "In view of the existing state of affairs in Mexico, the secretary for foreign affairs (Sir Edward Grey) desires to warn British subjects against visiting that country unless absolutely obliged to do so by imperative necessity. John Jamstone, a British subject, has been killed by Yaqui Indians in Mexico."

GOV. WILLIS GIVES UP TRIP TO THE COAST

Columbus, June 22.—Governor Willis abandoned his scheduled trip to the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco, where he was to have been the orator and chief guest at the exercises in celebration of Ohio day, July 2. He may visit the exposition late in August or early in September. A little unfinished business concerning hold-over members of commissions had to do in part with the change in plans, but new business which unexpectedly presented itself regarding conditions in some of the state institutions was said to be chief consideration.

A serious condition has developed at the new Lima state hospital. There is a crying demand for use of the housing facilities of this new hospital, but the building commission, on the plea that the institution is not complete, has refused to turn it over to the state board of administration, which is to operate it and which is demanding to be put in charge at once. It is admitted, the hospital is practically complete.

"I am not saying which board is right," Governor Willis said, "but something should be done. The other state hospitals for the insane are over crowded and there is demand for relief of this overcrowding by opening the new hospital. The buildings are erected, the store rooms are stocked with provisions, the cooks are on hand, there are beds for 600 patients, and the beds are made, yet this institution, the finest of its kind in the country, is standing idle and unused."

OHIO BRIEFS

Motorcyclist Killed.

Mansfield, O., June 22.—Waile Edward L. Quinn was trying to pass an automobile on a country road near here, the front wheel of his motorcycle struck a rut in the road. The motorcycle swerved into the automobile, throwing Quinn against the fender. His skull was fractured. He died at the hospital here several hours later.

Shoots Wife and Kills Self.

Cleveland, June 22.—Frank Kader shot his wife and killed himself. Mrs. Kader may die. Domestic trouble culminating in a suit for divorce filed by the wife recently is blamed.

SELECTIONS OF THE GOVERNOR

Columbus, June 22.—Governor Willis made the following appointments: Frank P. Richter, Hamilton, reappointed to state board of uniform laws, no salary; Murray Seasegood, Cincinnati, reappointed to state blind relief commission, no salary; A. S. Frazer, Xenia, reappointed trustee Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' home, Xenia, no salary; H. C. Hoehler, Alliance, trustee Kent normal school, no salary; S. D. Shankland, Madison, trustee Kent normal school, no salary; D. K. Hollenbeck, reappointed member of Ft. Meigs memorial commission, no salary; J. L. Arnold, Canton, member state embalming board.

PYTHIAN SISTERS.

Regular meeting of Washington Temple No. 380, Tuesday evening, June 22, at 7:30 o'clock.

JANE A. GARDNER, M. E. C. IDA C. GILLESPIE, M. of R. & C.

Red Cross Ball Blue, all blue, best bluing value in the world, makes the laundress smile.

Rexall Shaving Cream

Lathers freely and quickly; makes shaving easy and delightful. Try it once and you will never shave yourself again without it.

USE REXALL SHAVING LOTION

and your face will never get sore

BLACKMER & TANQUARY

Druggists.
The Rexall Store.

"STAR—A Good Thing To Pass Along"

Men Who Chew Are Men Who DO

IN the big power plants, like those that harness Niagara Falls, and aid the progress of American manufacturing, we find men chewing—and they're chewing STAR.

And here's why men of big minds and big bodies chew and boost STAR: STAR plugs are thick—that means more of the rich, chewable inside for you. A thick STAR plug won't dry out like a thin plug and every STAR plug weighs a full 16 ounce pound. STAR is made clean and kept so.

Try STAR and you'll know why one hundred and twenty-five million 10c. pieces are sold each year.

STAR CHEWING TOBACCO

LEADING BRAND OF THE WORLD

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

16 oz.
Plugs

10c.
Cuts

ATTEMPTED TO COLLECT OLD RIFLES

Washington, June 22.—One of the men who has been most active in attempting to get from the United States government the 355,000 discarded Krag-Jorgenson rifles is J. D. Morgan of New York, who is known as a promoter and describes himself as an expert on heavy ordnance.

Morgan has been in Washington for several months, in the course of which he has prosecuted his effort to obtain these cast off firearms, for which fabulous prices are being offered by agents of the warring governments. He has been able to get into interviews with President Wilson but has failed to move Mr. Wilson but his endeavors in that direction are now at an end.

Morgan came to Washington bearing a "to whom it may concern" letter of introduction from a purchasing agent in New York city, who is supposed to be buying war munitions for one of the allies. This purchasing agent acknowledged that Morgan had asked for this letter to help him in his effort to obtain these rifles.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

grant a series of interviews to him that have now been terminated.

Morgan's proposal to swap his invention for the cast off war materials was made not only to the president, but to Secretary Garrison, with whom he talked. Officials of the war and navy departments have been willing to try out Morgan's "death dealing device," but they never have been able to obtain details which would enable them to pass judgment on it.

Morgan, who is said to have had an adventurous career, is totally blind and is usually accompanied by a young woman who answers to the name of Miss Lewis. So far as is known Miss Lewis is not related to Mrs. Selma Lewis of New York, who has figured in recent newspaper publications in regard to efforts to get the Krag rifles.

The purchasing agent in New York with whom Morgan at one time negotiated for the sale of the rifles is Walter R. Henzy. Mr. Henzy is understood to be buying war munitions for one of the allies. He acknowledged that he had negotiated with Morgan at one time for the rifles. He said he had been brought in touch with Morgan by two men, who represented that Morgan might be able to get the guns.

Morgan has been in Washington for several months, in the course of which he has prosecuted his effort to obtain these cast off firearms, for which fabulous prices are being offered by agents of the warring governments. He has been able to get into interviews with President Wilson but has failed to move Mr. Wilson but his endeavors in that direction are now at an end.

Morgan came to Washington bearing a "to whom it may concern" letter of introduction from a purchasing agent in New York city, who is supposed to be buying war munitions for one of the allies. This purchasing agent acknowledged that Morgan had asked for this letter to help him in his effort to obtain these rifles.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his attempt to get the rifles partly on an offer to give the United States government an invention which he contended would revolutionize modern warfare and which would make the United States absolutely invincible among the nations of the world.

Morgan based his

WASHINGTON DAILY HERALD

THE HERALD PUBLISHING COMPANY.

W. W. MILLIKAN, President.

PUBLICATION OFFICE NO. 206 EAST COURT ST., OPP. POST OFFICE.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER.

Subscriptions: By Carrier 10 Cents a Week. In advance $5.00 for the year. By Mail and on Free Deliveries Cash in Advance $3.00 a year; $1.75, 6 months; $1.00, 3 months; 35c, 1 month.

ADVERTISING RATES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION.

Obituaries, memorial notices, resolutions and cards of thanks will be charged for at half rates, or 2½ cents per line of six words.

Entered as Second Class Matter, August 20, 1910, at the Postoffice at Washington C. H., Ohio, Under the Act of March 3d, 1879.

TELEPHONES—Home No. 167 Bell, Main No. 176.

The Defeat of the Russians

The defeat of the Russian troops in Galicia by the Germans and Austrians grows greater with the receipt of detailed information.

The Teutonic allies are driving the Russians away before them like chaff before the wind. Not content with having driven the force of the Czar back onto Russian territory the victors are now seeking to destroy the whole tremendous army and thus, at least until Russia can recruit, mobilize and equip another army, be freed of the menace and the actual danger of Russia on the east, leaving them free to battle with the allies on the west.

Providing the cost in men has not been too great the victories which the Germans and Austrians have won in the east should be of tremendous advantage to them in the campaigns to follow this summer in the west.

England and France are making every effort to send reinforcements and arms to Russia, but as yet, with the Dardanelles still closed, no way has been devised by which help can reach Russia. As long as Germany and Austria can keep their foes separated and strike them singly they hold a tremendous advantage, especially when fighting on the defensive.

The "Oleo" Frauds

According to the figures given out in Washington by Secretary of the Treasurer McAdoo, the frauds perpetrated during the last decade by the Oleomargarine makers of the country have totalled a staggering sum.

It is estimated now by government officials that the national treasury has been defrauded of twenty-seven million dollars by these frauds. That total exceeds, probably, that of almost any fraud ever perpetrated on the revenue officials. Counterfeiting and whiskey frauds pale into insignificance beside the frauds recently brought to light.

Aside from the staggering sum total of the frauds the fact that one of the alleged participants—The Capital City Dairy Company, of Columbus—conducted its business close to this city, gives to the whole matter a peculiar interest.

Not many years ago "Oleo" was under the ban of the law and its manufacture and sale was either forbidden by law or by reason of its unpopularity with the consumers it did not find ready sale under its true name. For many years "Oleo" was sold really as contraband and under false pretenses.

Later on, under the direction and control of the pure food officials the manufacture and sale of substitute for butter was permitted and encouraged.

A tremendous market developed, but the revenue officials required payment of a tax.

With prosperity came the opportunity to perpetrate fraud on the government which had made "Oleo" popular, and the temptation was too strong for the manufacturers to withstand.

Now they must pay back to the treasury the sums they have obtained by fraud and perhaps some of the officials will be sent to prison.

The scandals involving the "Oleo" manufacturers has been the sensation of the past year.

Frank Sentence Commuted

Governor Slaton of Georgia, harkening to the requests of hundreds of thousands of petitioners in all walks of life and located in every section of the nation, on Sunday night commuted the death sentence of Leo M. Frank to life imprisonment.

There is no doubt that public sentiment throughout the country will support the action of Governor Slaton.

The request was for a commutation of sentence—not a pardon—and in urging that request so earnestly the hundreds of thousands of petitioners acted upon the belief that Frank had not had a fair and impartial trial.

The Governor of Georgia was not called upon to consider the question of Frank's guilt or innocence—the question as to whether or not the young Hebrew had been given the kind of trial that was guaranteed to him under the constitution of the United States was the only one which confronted him.

The fact that the request of the petitioners was granted evidences that Governor Slaton concluded that Frank had not been fairly tried.

There is no doubt that the action of Governor Slaton will call forth a tremendous amount of adverse criticism and abuse, especially in his own state, where the feeling against Frank had developed into almost an insane frenzy.

Court after court appealed to to right the wrong and give to Frank a new trial found reason to refuse in the intricate legal formalities and it was left to the executive to prevent the "legal murder" of Frank which would have been a blot on the history of Georgia.

While the chief executive will be censured now, the people of Georgia, when sanity returns, will give him credit for having done right and for the courage to do what he thought was right.

The people of Georgia are fortunate in having Governor Slaton in office and they will soon acknowledge it.

Poetry For Today

HAVE DONE WITH FEAR.

Have done with Fear! He has not been your friend, Nor has he been your honest, outright foe, Who met you face to face and challenged you To draw your sword the better man to show.

For Fear has walked with you in friendly guise, Yet dragging back, retarding your advance; With poisoned weapon hidden in his sleeve, With furtive eyes alert for stolen chance.

Have done with Fear! Turn suddenly and sure To strike him down with final, fatal blow.

March on alone. There skulks not at your heels That traitorous friend, your silent, stealthy foe.

—By Vlyn Johnson.

Weather Report

Washington, June 22.—Ohio: Partly cloudy Tuesday, probably showers along the lake; Wednesday fair.

For Indiana, Michigan, Tennessee, Kentucky and West Virginia—Fair Tuesday and Wednesday.

Illinois—Fair Tuesday; Wednesday probably fair in north and showers in south portion; not much change in temperature.

THE WEATHER

Observations of the United States weather bureau taken at 7 p. m. Monday:

	Temp.	Weather.
New York	70	Clear
Boston	68	Cloudy
Buffalo	66	Cloudy
Washington	72	Cloudy
Columbus	77	Clear
Chicago	78	Clear
St. Louis	78	Clear
Minneapolis	70	Cloudy
Los Angeles	70	Clear
New Orleans	92	Clear
Tampa	80	Cloudy
Seattle	72	Clear

Forecast.

Washington, June 22.—Indications for tomorrow: Ohio—Fair.

ZAPATISTAS TO WITHDRAW

El Paso, Tex., June 22.—General Pablo Gonzales and his Constitutionalist army are beginning the entry to Mexico City, according to a Vera Cruz dispatch received by the Carranza agency here. It said: "General Gonzales entered the eastern suburbs and halted to allow his left wing to encircle the city on the south, and thus protect the capital's water supply at Xochimilco. The Zapata army is expected to withdraw to the west, evacuating the capital without serious fighting."

ZEPPELIN FLIES OVER HOLLAND

London, June 22.—A Rotterdam dispatch says that a Zeppelin was seen passing over Holland at a high rate of speed in the direction of England.

Strong Points

OF THE BUCKEYE STATE BUILDING AND LOAN COMPANY, RANKIN BUILDING, 22 W. GAY ST., COLUMBUS, OHIO.

6. Safety of books and papers. Our books, records and mortgage securities are kept in the first really fire-proof business and office building in the United States. (See Fireproof Digest, New York, May 1912, and Building Management, Chicago, January 1913). Also the first to be furnished with all metal furniture. Assets $8,700,000. Five per cent paid on time deposits. Write or call for booklets.

Bits of Byplay

By Luke McLuke

Copyright, 1915, the Cincinnati Enquirer

Advice.

When things ain't going right with you, and you can't make them go; when business matters look real blue, and you fear bankruptcy; when cobwebs gather on your stock, and customers are rare; when all your assets are in hock, don't curse and tear your hair. Just listen to this good advice and take it if you're wise: Give every article a price and then go advertise, and advertise from morn to night; don't overlook a day, and soon you'll see the world go bright, and things will come your way. Invest in good publicity, and fortune you will greet, and in a little while you'll be way up on Easy street.

Paw Knows Everything.

Willie—Paw, what are speaking terms?

Paw—Contracts for Chautauqua lectures, my son.

Luck.

This dope will do you good, my boy. If you are not too dense: The only thing there is to luck Is good hard common sense.

The Reason.

"My husband tells me that you fired him," complained Mrs. Rounder. "What was the matter with him?" "He was loaded," replied the boss.

The Wise Fool.

"Silence is golden," quoted the sage. "That's right," agreed the fool. "It costs something to keep a man's mouth shut."

Cheer Up!

You can be equal to the test, Just hustle and quit sighing; A fellow's bound to do his best If he is always trying.

Two Recent Legal Decisions.

Dentists are not physicians within the meaning of the statute which allows the sale of intoxicating liquor on Sunday on the prescription of a physician, and to hold otherwise would make toothache more welcome and prevalent than snake bite.

Wuff!

Dear Luke: Absence makes the heart grow fonder. Whisky makes the nose turn blue; Peroxide makes the hair turn blonder. But distance lends enchantment to the view.

K. P.

Why Birdie Gets Nothing but Boosts.

Musicians are agreed that the saxophone is an instrument out of which but few can get any real music, but Miss Birdie played it beautifully. She is a popular member of our most exclusive social set and is also noted for having once whipped a gentleman who did not appreciate her saxophone playing.—Pleasant Valley (Ark.) Palladium.

Names is Names.

Cole Tarr lives at Mount City, Ill.

Things to Worry About. Most of the Turkish tobacco is grown in California.

Our Daily Special.

Most of our obstacles are homemade.

Luke McLuke Says

Nothing seems funny to a girl after she has discovered that she wrinkles her nose when she laughs.

The man who takes his pay envelope home to his wife without opening it may be henpecked. But he is seldom in line with the bunch that says "Good morning, Judge!" in the police court on Monday.

Father never notices how much the baby resembles its mother until it begins to bawl for things that it can't have.

A man is never so poor that he isn't willing to share his poverty with a woman by marrying her.

A court, even though it might know all the law part of the time and part of the law all the time, might not know all the law all the time.

Some people are so finicky that they will not embrace an opportunity until they have traced the pedigree of the opportunity and found out if it has been embraced before.

A reader wants to know the difference between an apartment and a flat. Why, about $25 a month. Ask us something hard.

Mother will go to the ten cent store and get a ten cent hammer, a ten cent saw, a ten cent chisel and a five cent screwdriver, and then she will get mad because father can't do a job of mending for which the carpenter wanted to charge her $4.50.

Other people often strike you as being cranky, don't they? Well, that is just what they are thinking about you.

When the bride sits down and sighs and wonders if she might not have done better the honeymoon beats it into the bathroom and begins frisking the shelves for the carbolic acid.

The less a woman's photograph resembles her the more she likes it.

The old fashioned lad who used to hunt for a white horse when he saw a redheaded girl now has a son who hunts for redheaded girls when he is riding in his white automobile.

HAVE YOU TRIED IT?

CLINE'S ICE CREAM

Our Ice Cream Sodas and Sundaes Are The Talk of The Town Since We Have Been Using This Cream Of

QUALITY
A Trial Will Convince You

Baldwin's Drug Store

Arlington House Block Both Phones 52

TEUTONIC HORDES ARE ADVANCING

BECKER IS TO GET HEARING

New York, June 22.—Martin T. Man-ton, counsel for Charles Becker, will communicate with Governor Whitman in order to learn what form of hearing the governor will require in considering Becker's appeal for clemency. Becker's counsel are convinced after reading the interview with Governor Whitman gave out in Albany that the governor will give the condemned man a final chance to plead his case in person.

WIFE CHEWED TOBACCO IN BED

Huntington, W. Va., June 22.—Francis M. Egglestons was granted a divorce from his wife, whom he accused in his petition of chewing tobacco in bed. Egglestons was also given custody of the four children.

BLANK TAX FORMS HIT

Columbus, June 22.—Attorney General Turner sustained the contention of the Ohio Manufacturers' Association that corporations need not fill out answers to various questions asked them on the blank forms furnished them by the state tax commission for making their returns of personal property. The attorney general held it to be optional with the officers of the corporation to make answers on the blanks, but they could be required to answer them if summoned to do so by the district assessor.

Some mothers teach their babies to talk and then expect them to keep still.—Indianapolis Star

A CLEAN SLATE

We specialize in the 7% Cumulative Preferred Stocks of sound industrial enterprises which we sell to 10,000 non-speculative investors. No client has ever lost a dollar of principal or income on investments purchased through us.

The Geiger-Jones Co

Investment Bankers, Canton, Ohio

Henderson & Wright

Fayette Co. Representatives

YOU CAN'T

You can't accumulate money without self-denial. Are you looking forward to the day when you will have all you now want and deluding yourself with the idea that you will then begin to accumulate money? That day will never dawn for you. Each day will bring a new want and if you continue to indulge in them your life will end in want. Indulgence today means for you future want, while self-denial today means future indulgence. Start a self-denial account today. Watch over it now and in the years to come it will watch over you.

Said a wise old Arab "He that sleeps without supper gets up without debt."

Fayette County Bank

Hours 8:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m.

We pay 3 per cent. interest in our Savings Department or (Certificates of Deposit).

COUNCIL HOLDS AN UNUSUALLY BUSY SESSION MONDAY NIGHT

Much Street Legislation Is Enacted and Bids for the Lighting of Streets Are Taken Up and Council Will Meet Business Men at Early Date—Petition to Pave Remainder of Rawling Street Is Presented—Other Business.

Quite a great deal of legislation, principally for street improvement, was enacted by council, Monday night, at a special session. All members were present and a score or more of visitors thronged the council chambers.

Member Howell was granted more time to investigate street sweepers, and a combined sweeper and flusher may be recommended.

Application for an extension of a sewer on Temple street, resulted in the sewer being ordered in, providing the ten who promised taps act accordingly.

Sheets, reporting for the Service Committee, stated that a conference with the county commissioners was held in connection with the Leesburg avenue paving, and agreement had been made to pave that part of the avenue outside the corporate limits not included in the paving ordinance submitted to council.

More time was granted on the Oak street sidewalks, the residents of that street asking that action be delayed for a short time.

An extension of the water mains a distance of two squares on Rose avenue, was recommended by the service committee and authorized by council.

Veall asked why water hydrants had not been placed on Harrison and Henkle streets as ordered. Service Director Gertsner replied that proper notice had been served on the water company, but no action had resulted.

A resolution declaring it necessary to pave Paint street from the O. T. & I. tracks to Lewis street, by using brick or other material, was read and passed under suspension of the rules. Howell suggested that the proposed Union station might make some of the paving unnecessary at the present time and P. Tracey remarked that in all probability the new street would be pretty well worn out by the time the union station is erected.

A resolution declaring it necessary to pave Columbus avenue, from Court street to the culvert near the northern corner of the old fair ground, was passed.

An ordinance to improve Yeoman street, from Ogle to Elm, by paving or macadamizing was defeated upon its passage when Howell and M. Tracey voted against it. Their action was due to the original petition asking for macadamizing of the street while various materials were mentioned in the specifications. Later M. Tracey moved to reconsider the action, and this was done. Howell still voting against it.

An ordinance to proceed with the improvement of South Main street, to pave from the Pennsylvania tracks to Elm street, and top dress the macadam street from that point south, was read and passed.

A petition from property owners on Rawling street, Delaware to Lewis, asking that the street be paved, was read and the engineer instructed to obtain specifications.

Upon motion by Howell a committee was named to prepare an ordinance to regulate the price of private electric lighting in the city. He stated that the old ordinance had expired. Howell, Veall and P. Tracey were appointed on the committee.

The bids for street lighting then were read, and after some argument as how best to deal with the proposals, Will Worthington, as chairman of the Dutch Treat Club, extended an invitation to council to meet with the business and professional men of the club, and discuss the proposals with a view to arriving at some definite understanding and agreement on the ornamental lights at least. The invitation was unanimously accepted.

Sheets stated that he had been informed by the service director that the new fill across Paint creek bottoms, had spread over several feet of land owned by private citizens and asked what action should be taken. After some discussion Senator Gregg was instructed to investigate and recommend the proper action.

Veall asked about the famous east end sewer, and what had become of the proposal to afford relief to that part of the city. It was stated that the affair was still in the hands of a committee.

Upon motion by M. Tracey the service director was authorized to urge Mr. Burke to repair the sidewalk in front of his property on S. Fayette street.

A motion by P. Tracey resulted in the Service Director being instructed to see Mr. Paul and have him to cut the weeds and clear away the brush on the Paul lot on East Market street. The service director was authorized to drain a pool which has been causing much annoyance on Peabody avenue. Council then adjourned.

Deep interest is being manifested in the several proposals of the Washington Gas & Electric Company to light the streets of the city for a period of five or ten years.

The present number of lights and rate per lamp per annum, is given below:

113 old arc lamps at $60 each per annum.

17 new arc lamps, at $65 per annum each.

The five proposals made by the Washington Gas & Electric Company for lighting the streets, are as follows:

Electric Incandescents for a period of ten years, commencing July 1, 1915, for all night and every night: 30 or more 80 candle power, $18.00. 150 or more 250 c. p., $38.00. 10 or more 400 c. p., $48.00. 20 or more 600 c. p., $60.00.

Moon light schedule—30 or more 80 candle power, $17.00.

150 or more 250 c. p., $36.00.

10 or more 400 c. p., $45.00.

20 or more 600 c. p., $57.00.

Electric Incandescents for a period of five years, beginning July 1st, 1915, every night: 30 or more 80 candle power, $20.00. 150 or more 250 c. p., $43.00.

10 or more 400 c. p., $53.00.

20 or more 600 c. p., $65.00.

Moon light schedule—30 or more 80 c. p., $19.00.

150 or more 250 c. p., $39.00.

10 or more 400 c. p., $50.00.

20 or more 600 c. p., $62.00.

Ornamental lighting, or cluster lights:

Lighting for a period of five years—All material for installing wires underground complete and ready to light and maintaining the lights, fifty dollars each per annum.

Two of lights to be of 60 watts, to burn until ten p. m. One top light of 100 watt type to burn all night and every night.

If 100 watt lamps burn on moon light schedule and all dark hours, a reduction of five dollars per annum will be allowed.

Second proposition for ornamental lighting:

Light for a period of ten years; same as above specifications, $40 each per annum.

On moon light schedule, a reduction of four dollars per annum from above amount.

Third proposition for ornamental lighting:

Light for a period of ten years.

150 watt mazda lamps, single light standards, $40.00 per annum, or on moon light schedule, $35.00.

Five year contract: specifications same as above, $50.00 per light per annum.

Moonlight schedule $45.00 per annum.

Under the foregoing proposals both overhead and ornamental lights can be obtained, the overhead lights for all parts of the city where the ornamental lights are not installed. Property owners have the choice of selecting either the single globe or three globe standards where ornamental lighting is desired.

Councilmen are in possession of data on the lighting of Evansville, Ind., and Canton, Ohio, showing in Evansville the rate for the 600 c. p. lamps to be $45 and the 250 c. p. lamps $27, and in Canton $18 for the 100 c. p., $24 for the 200 c. p. and $26.50 for the 250 c. p.

TOP DRESSING FOR DEVALON ROAD

The state is keeping a careful eye on the Devalon Road, which was improved under the State Aid plan two years ago, and which is in need of an application of screenings or other similar material, and rolling.

The road improved was taken over by the state to be maintained by the state, and since that time it has been inspected frequently, and this spring it became apparent that there was need of a top dressing, the screenings originally placed upon the road having proven insufficient, and the road had become very rough.

Workmen are now engaged in placing washed gravel upon the road, and this will be spread and rolled and a light application of asphalt, or similar material will be added as a binder, and it is expected that the repairs will greatly lengthen the life of the road.

ONE CENT DAMAGES ALLOWED BY JURY

Acting under the instruction of the court the jury in the case of the American Seeding Machine Company against A. S. Glascock, assignee of W.H. E. Martin, returned a verdict of one cent damages in favor of the plaintiff.

The suit was to replein certain machinery, and the jury, after being out just long enough to prepare the verdict, returned a finding that at the beginning of the action the plaintiff had the right of property and was "entitled to possession of said goods and chattels in question, and we do assess its damages at the sum of one cent."

Logan represented the plaintiff and Chaffin the defendant.

UMBRELLA MENDER TO BE BURIED BY COUNTY

Herman Carstensen, aged about 45 years, picked up in Millwood a few days ago and taken in charge by the local authorities, passed away Monday afternoon, death being due to tuberculosis probably brought on by exposure.

The man's home was in Tripoli, Iowa, and a telegram to friends there brought the information that they did not want the remains, and they will be buried in the "potters' field" and the expenses defrayed by the county.

LAST OF FATED FAMILY IS BURIED

James Taylor, farmer, aged 62 years, last of a family of several brothers who have met violent death or died under peculiar circumstances was found dead in a corn field near his home east of Greenfield, a few days ago. The remains were interred at Greenfield Monday.

The man had evidently died of heart trouble, and was found beside his plow. Two of his brothers were murdered several years ago, and other members of the family have met violent deaths.

BOY SCOUT OUT ON LONG TRIP

Donovan Esthes, aged 14, of 338 Linden avenue, Dayton, reached this city before nine o'clock Tuesday morning and reported at the mayor's office, on his way to Huntington, W. Va.

He wore the uniform of a Boy Scout and was making the trip by bicycle, expecting to reach Chillicothe Tuesday evening. He left Dayton at 5:30 Tuesday morning. He carried a letter of introduction from Mayor G. W. Shroyer, of Dayton. He left this city shortly after noon.

SPECIAL SALE

RUGGS

AT CRAIG BROS.

WE HAVE Some specially priced Rugs to offer by reason of discontinuance of patterns by manufacturers. This is an occasion which happens only twice a year, and always affords a rare chance for Bargains. This time we have—

Whittall's Royal Worcester

RUGS 9x12 size, regular price $47.00 at, special - $37.50

Other specials in Wiltons at - $27.50 $32.50

Velvet Rugs, 9x12 size at $13.50

Axminster Rugs 9x12 size at $14.75

Axminster Rugs $22.50 value at $18.00

Axminster Rugs $25.00 value at $21.75

Also Some Special Values In

Matting Rugs, 36x72, 55c

Axminster Rugs, 36x72 $2.85

Baroda Wool Rugs, 36x72 $2.25

Velvet Rugs, 27x54, $1.75

Mottled Axminster Rugs 27x54 $1.35

These offers are for a brief period and those interested should come at once

Craig Bros.

REALTY TRANSFERS

G. W. Howard and wife to French and Thomas, .29 acre, Jeffersonville: $200.

J. W. Howard and wife, to Chas. C. French, 1/4 acre, Jeffersonville: $400.

Elizabeth McLaughlin to Jess W. Smith, lot 504 Bereman addition: $350.

Frank A. Barr by heirs to J. F. Adams, lot 307, Washington: $1.

M. C. Ortman et al to Ellen Allen, part lot 69, Washington: $1.

W. E. Smith and wife to Chas. R. Fichthorn, 47 acres, Jasper township: $1.

Minnie Davis and husband to Jesse W. Miley, part lot 467, Washington: $100.

S. H. McAfee to Andrew McAfee, one-sixth acre, Staunton: $1.

Jess M. Miley and wife to Minnie Davis, lots 73 and 74, Washington: $100.

Wm. Scott by heirs to M. R. Scott, 40 acres Madison township: $1.

Ohio Land Company to Minerva A. Neurantz, lot 80 Baker addition: $200.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Boys' Summer Camp.

Secretary Patton will make a trip to Bainbridge and surrounding country Wednesday with a view to finding a suitable location for the boys' summer camp.

Summer School Starts.

The Y. M. C. A. summer school started Tuesday morning with a good attendance. Secretary Patton announces that the registrations will close Wednesday evening.

CLASSIFIED

WANTED—Permanent homes in the country for girls and boys under 16 years of age. Apply at Probate Judge's Office.

WANTED—Anyone wanting vault cleaning done, call Citz phone 2 and 146t6.

Open-air Festival and Midway ON THE CITY'S ONLY BOULEVARD

Saturday evening, June 26, the Ladies' Gym Class will hold a Festival and Midway on the City's only Boulevard. Beside a large number of attractions an elaborate Supper Menu is being prepared and will be announced in a later edition of this paper. Every attraction on the street, and the open-air dining hall will be open at 4:30 o'clock. For a good time be on hands then and stay through to the finish.

The Ladies' Gym Class

Quick-Meal Gasoline Stoves

Are selling fast now. People are getting ready for the warm days that are coming, and it is a well known fact that we sell the best Gasoline Stove on the market for the smallest amount of money.

REFRIGERATORS

DALE

YOUTH HELD IN CONNECTION WITH B. & O. SHOOTING CASE

John Waldon, aged 20, was arrested Tuesday morning by Officer Baugh and B. & O. detective Kennedy at his home near Johnson's crossing.

A warrant prepared for his apprehension charges him with firing the three revolver bullets into B. & O. passenger train No. 106 as it crossed the Lewis pike intersection at 11 o'clock Sunday night. Fortunately none of the train's passengers were injured by the shooting.

Waldon offered no objection to his arrest and made no statement concerning the charge against him. He will probably be brought before the mayor tonight or Tuesday.

The police say they have a strong case against Waldon. Waldon is unmarried and has been living with his parents. He is being held in the county jail.

In Social Circles

The members of the First Baptist church will give a reception for their pastor and wife, at the church, Wednesday night, June 23, from 8 to 10.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Washington friends received invitations Monday, sent out by Mr. and Mrs. John E. Orbaugh for the marriage of their niece, Edith Hildebrand, to Rev. Eugene C. Prosser, at half past eight o'clock, Monday morning, July the fifth, at the All Saints church of Wilmington.

Miss Jane Saxton entertained Tuesday with an elaborate one o'clock luncheon, of exquisite appointments, in honor of Miss Priscilla Wood, of Wilmington, and her house party of O. W. U. students, also school friends of Miss Allen.

The guests included Miss Wood, Miss Pauline Hutchison, of Altoona, Pa.; Miss Elizabeth Burns, of Dayton; Miss Helen Harper, Mr. Dick Rector, of Columbus; Mr. Carl Freshwater, of Delaware, Mr. Marion Cardwell, of Louisville, Ky.; and Mr. Jesse Worley.

The table was lovely in colour de rose, with graceful center piece of pink roses, pink nut basket, the handles tied with pink tulle and the same color suggested in the place cards.

Miss Helen Harper is entertaining the same guests with a picnic supper at Sweet Briar Ridge tonight, the party motoring up to this delightful summer place, overlooking Deer Creek, late in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Clasgens, Messrs Winchell, Maynard and Robert Craig and Howard Harper were additional guests.

The following announcement cards were received with interested surprise by Washington friends Monday:

"Mr. and Mrs. John McCarty announce the marriage of their daughter Anna Elizabeth, to Mr. Morris

A False Report

The impression has been conveyed—we know not how, nor do we care—that we are not now using the same serum that has established our reputation as cholera experts.

Report comes to us that some unprincipled competitor has stated that we are not now using the serum originally used.

Beg to inform those who care that I have never changed; I recommend and use the same LIFE IMMUNITY SERUM (guaranteed) as always.

I am prepared, however, to use any commercial serum that the owner desires.

Depending on the serum used, the prices range from 40 cents to 65 cents per head, the latter price being for the serum that is guaranteed to immune FOR LIFE against hog cholera.

Neil B. Jones, V. S.

Prop. The Hog House

WASHINGTON C. H. O.

Miss Bess Shoop returned the first of the week from Waukegan, Ill., where she has been teaching during the past year. She was re-elected for the coming year, but has not yet decided as to her future plans.

Misses Hazel McCord and Marie Hughes, Zoe Colaw and Mahala McCoy, are attending the Athens summer school.

Mrs. G. C. Emmons arrived from Michigan the first of the week to spend a couple of weeks with her husband, Dr. Emmons.

Mr. J. A. Stout, a well-known farmer of Glendon, who operates the Armstrong land, has completed remodeling his residence, with large pillared verandah and other improvements. Painted white, with green shutters, and surrounded by an immense lawn and fine old trees, it is one of the most attractive country places of southern Fayette.

Marjorie Klever, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Klever, is visiting in Columbus.

Miss Lina Willis returns to Washington, D. C., Wednesday, to resume her philanthropical work, as superintendent of the Summer Camp of Associated Charities. Misses Prudence Culhan and Carrie Willis accompany her and will also engage in the same line of work during the summer.

Misses Opal Walker and Irene Duckwall have gone to Cincinnati to attend a picnic at Coney Island Wednesday. They will remain in Cincinnati and Kentucky for an indefinite visit with friends and relatives.

Mrs. Lossie Wells and daughter left Tuesday morning for Springfield where they will spend the remainder of the week with her sister, Mrs. C. E. Mitchell.

Mrs. J. W. Irish arrives Wednesday morning from Lincoln, Ill., to spend several weeks visiting her mother, Mrs. Ione Bryant, sister, Mrs. Frank Mayer, and brother, Mr. John Bryant.

Messrs Frank T. Worman and Roy H. Knoop of Troy are business visitors in this city.

Miss Ruth Teeters left Monday to enter the summer school at Athens.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Goldsbury are announcing the birth of a daughter Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Will D. Chaney returned Tuesday evening from a visit in Lima.

Mrs. Emily Slonaker and daughter who have been visiting Washington friends, left Tuesday for a visit in Wilmington before returning to their home in Los Angeles, Cal.

Mrs. G. A. Pavay and Mrs. Frank Ley were shopping visitors from Sabina here Tuesday.

Mrs. Ralph Gondert, of Akron, and Miss Florence Flynn, of Chillicothe, are the guests of Mrs. Oscar Kellhofer.

Mrs. Glen Foster, of Mt. Sterling, is the guest of Mrs. Jesse Persinger for the day.

Mr. Frank Snider is a business visitor from Xenia today.

Carl Pugsley, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pugsley, was taken to the Fayette Hospital Monday for special treatment.

SUMMER SCHOOL OPENS WITH ROLL OF TWENTY

The Y. M. C. A. summer school opened Monday morning with a student registration of twenty. The courses of the school will continue—morning sessions only—for six weeks.

The school is divided into three periods, as follows: First period—English and German; second period—history, algebra and Latin II; third period, civics and Latin III. School begins at 8 a. m.

Miss Lois Bradford, of Barton, O., is the guest of Miss Iva Haines, to act as one of the maids at her wedding.

Mrs. Ella Noble is visiting friends in Springfield.

Mrs. Ralph Manley has returned from a visit with her mother, Mrs. J. R. Todhunter, at her country home.

Mr. Glenn McCoy is in East Palestine to act as best man at the wedding of an O. S. U. class mate, Mr. Robert Fleming, which takes place today.

Mrs. Theo. Wisenberg and daughter Jane left Tuesday for their home in Cleveland, after a visit at the home of Mrs. Wisenberg's grandmother, Mrs. Anderson DeWitt.

DEMONSTRATION

of Electric Heating and Cooking appliances at the Electric Shop, 224 E. Court street all this week. Open day and night. Come.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT.

The Woman's Guild of the Presbyterian church will hold their weekly sale Saturday morning, June 26, at Barchet's Meat Market.

Dressed AND A BIT OF FINERY MUSSED
That's Where A WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC IRON
smoothes out the wrinkles—no trouble — no hot woe — no worry.
MISS FRUSH will demonstrate these appliances all this week.
THE ELECTRIC SHOP
224 E. Court Street

NOTES OF FISH AND GAME OUTING

Invitations have been sent out to all members of the Fayette Fish and Game Protective Association and the instant acceptances received point to a crowd that will number practically the entire membership. Inquiries made indicate that there may be others than members who desire to go and all such should file an application for membership with the Secretary, Henry Sparks, and thus be eligible. The society is in no sense exclusive, the main thing demanded being that a man have a love of the out-of-doors, the streams and fields, and a desire for the conservation of game and fish.

• • •

Misses Opal Walker and Irene Duckwall have gone to Cincinnati to attend a picnic at Coney Island Wednesday. They will remain in Cincinnati and Kentucky for an indefinite visit with friends and relatives.

Mrs. Lossie Wells and daughter left Tuesday morning for Springfield where they will spend the remainder of the week with her sister, Mrs. C. E. Mitchell.

Mrs. J. W. Irish arrives Wednesday morning from Lincoln, Ill., to spend several weeks visiting her mother, Mrs. Ione Bryant, sister, Mrs. Frank Mayer, and brother, Mr. John Bryant.

Messrs Frank T. Worman and Roy H. Knoop of Troy are business visitors in this city.

Miss Ruth Teeters left Monday to enter the summer school at Athens.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Goldsbury are announcing the birth of a daughter Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Will D. Chaney returned Tuesday evening from a visit in Lima.

Mrs. Emily Slonaker and daughter who have been visiting Washington friends, left Tuesday for a visit in Wilmington before returning to their home in Los Angeles, Cal.

Mrs. G. A. Pavay and Mrs. Frank Ley were shopping visitors from Sabina here Tuesday.

Mrs. Ralph Gondert, of Akron, and Miss Florence Flynn, of Chillicothe, are the guests of Mrs. Oscar Kellhofer.

Mrs. Glen Foster, of Mt. Sterling, is the guest of Mrs. Jesse Persinger for the day.

Mr. Frank Snider is a business visitor from Xenia today.

Carl Pugsley, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pugsley, was taken to the Fayette Hospital Monday for special treatment.

Clate Parrett will be the Information Bureau Official.

Residents along the Waterloo pike may look for the parade between 7:30 and 8:00 a. m.

Pleasant weather is indicated, but in case of rain, the spacious club house and verandahs will furnish shelter.

An added contest to the program for the Fish and Game outing will be:

Contest 6B—Revolver or pistol shooting, and revolver any calibre, at 10, 15 and 25 yards. Three aggregate high scores qualify for final and shoot off at 25 yards. Ten shots at each target. Targets furnished, contestant furnishes own ammunition.

Prizes—First, donated by Wm. Hettessheimer; Second by Flowers Bakery; Third by O. W. Brown.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

C. C. Taggart, of Jeffersonville, and Flossie Straley, of Jeffersonville, Rev. Doty.

ELECTRIC CANDY PARTY

tonight from 7 to 8 at The Electric Shop, 224 East Court St. Everybody is invited to attend.

The Colonial Theatre TONIGHT

"THE LOST HOUSE"

A Four-Reel Mutual Masterpiece
By Richard Harding Davis

5c Admission 5c

THE PALACE THEATRE

Now showing CLEO MADISON in Wild Irish Rose

A Romance of Killarney in Two Parts

'A Mixed-Up Elopement'

Nestor Comedy

Coming Thursday, June 24th at THE AIRDOME

Barbara Tennant in 'The Marked Woman'

A Shubert-Brady production in five parts. Benefit Picture for the Class in the Corner at Presbyterian Church.

Paramount Program every Wed. and Fri. WONDERLAND The Home of Good Pictures

TONIGHT

New Exploits of Elaine—Episode No. 16

The Cryptic Ring

The Police Dog Single reel comedy

TOMORROW — The Ghost Breaker

A Paramount, featuring H. B. Warner, in five parts. MATINEE at 2:30.

MARGUERITE CLARK is coming

Wednesday, the 30th, in THE CRUCIBLE

H. B. DAHL BUYS TWIN-SIX PACKARD TAKES JUDGMENT IN SUM OF $296.36

Jamison & Johnson have sold to Mr. H. B. Dahl a handsome twin-six Packard auto to be delivered in September. The big machine, one of the most beautiful machines on the market, is a twelve cylinder, as the name indicates.

The same firm has taken the agency for the Buick, and disposed of four machines Monday, on the first day of their agency.

Teacher—Now, Harold, can you tell me what letter this is? Small Harold—No, ma'am. Teacher—You can't? Why, you certainly know what comes after T, don't you? Small Harold—Yes, ma'am; sister's beau.—Chicago News.

BEGINS WORK ON PAVING HIGHWAY GREAT VALUES IN UNCLAIMED FREIGHT

LOOK AT THESE

$7 Vacuum Cleaners for $3.00

Dr. Buck's Stock Powders 40c grade for : 25c lb

Six-gallon Barrel Churn $3.00

Watch This Space for Bargains

John J. Campbell

Citz. phone 2215. 334 W. Court.

15

WHO PAYS?

HOUSES of GLASS

by EDWIN BLISS

(Copyright, 1915, by Pathé Exchange, Inc. All Moving Picture Rights and all Foreign Copyrights Strictly Reserved.)

SIXTH STORY

Ray Norris' law office faced Willard Fall's engineering office directly across the court of the same skyscraper in the city. The two young men had become acquainted through their business proximity, invitations had been extended, calls exchanged, and the two families were in a fair way of becoming friends.

Ray Norris was a prosperous young attorney, clean cut, handsome, ambitious, and tenderly devoted to his wife. If her husband was tenderly devoted to her, she was infinitely devoted to him.

Mrs. Fall on the other hand was thirty-five; engrossed in her social duties, a self-imposed social monitor and guardian of the morals of her set, who was too busy with her many tasks to grow old gracefully. Her husband, well-groomed, suave and careless, was known as a lady's man, and already disquieting rumors were reaching his wife. On the morning on which our story opens, Mrs. Fall had seen him through the window, talking to a pretty society bud, and had sent the maid to call him back. There had been a scene and he had left for his office in a huff.

"Lo Miss Foster. How're you this fine morning? I hope your father is better?" It was Norris talking to his stenographer.

"Good morning, Mr. Norris. He's some better, thank you." She was trying to be brave, and answered with an attempt at cheerfulness that set her head pounding violently, and made her grasp at her desk for support. He had thrown off his light top coat, and without looking at her sat down, and was in a moment deep in his morning's mail. Some communication of more than ordinary importance caused him to stop in his envelope slitting, and he rose to confer with her upon its contents. Then for the first time he looked at her, and knew from her flushed cheeks and unnaturally bright eyes that something was wrong.

"Why, Miss Foster!" he exclaimed in genuine concern, "whatever's the trouble? You look like the very dickens. What's up?"

"Oh, nothing," she answered, trying to make light of his concern—"leastwise, nothing that matters. Just a bothersome cold, and a little headache. By the way, is that that Smith & Hodson letter? What's the latest development this morning? What did they say to your proposal to—"

"Never mind that for a moment. Don't please try to turn the conversation off into that channel. You're ill."

"I assure you, Mr.—" He made a quick gesture indicative of his intention not to be put off in his inquiry, and crossing quickly to where she stood, took her pale, thin hands in both of his, and noted with quick concern that they were burning.

"This will never do," he said gravely, and with emphatic earnestness. And he repeated half aloud, half to himself, "never never do. I'm afraid I've been a bit of a brute lately, what with the night work, Sundays, skimped lunch hours." He disregarded her attempt to assuage his self-reproach, and went on. "But I'll see to that. You're slated for a vacation, and that in short order. I'll make arrangements." He turned thoughtfully away, and went back to his letters.

Willard Fall, across the court in his office, had seen Norris cross to where Myra stood at her desk beside the broad window, and an evil smile lighted his coarse features as he noted Norris take Myra's hands in his and hold them the while he spoke solicitously to her. Devoid of concern for the welfare of his own help, he had not the finesse to attribute another's concern to anything other than a personal motive, and he felt a miserable elation at what he considered "Norris' little game." His reflections were disturbed by the slight, recurrent creaking of his door, as of someone trying cautiously, inch by inch, to open it unnoticed. He sprang from his chair, strode with swift soft steps to the door, pulled it suddenly open, and confronted—his wife.

He bowed with mock courtesy at her startled surprise at being apprehended, and spoke with more than his usual unction.

"So, my dear, spying on me, eh? Had I divined your coming, I might have made preparations so's not to disappoint your expectations."

She turned, and had started to go, when his voice again arrested her.

Your idol seems to have clay feet. You indulge in the common fallacy of imagining that every man you have no intimate acquaintance with is a model of propriety. No one who is acquainted with your reputation as the watchdog of society"—here he grinned—"would ever believe you to be so frightfully unsophisticated. Why it was only a short while ago, when glancing casually out of this window and across the court, I saw Norris, holding hands with his pretty stenographer."

Mrs. Fall recovered quickly from an involuntary expression of surprise, and casting a scornful, contemptuous glance at the man who justified his indulgences by calumniating another, turned and was gone.

Blindly, angrily, Mrs. Fall rushed from the building, and in Central Park, where she went for rest and air, she met Mrs. Norris. Forgetting that she lived "in a glass house;" forgetting everything except that "misery loves company," she warned her against the pretty stenographer in her husband's office. By a few careless words the seeds of an awful suspicion were sown.

III.

"All through, Miss Foster?"

"Yes," wearily, "all through."

"Has that vicious headache left you?"

"No, it's still with me," she replied with the ghost of a smile. "It's been such a constant comrade, lately, I don't wonder but I would miss it were it to leave."

"That's a shocking state of affairs, certainly. Tell me, does your father seem too great a care, lately? Do you find it difficult to give your work your best attention, with the worry of his ailing health on your mind? You know,"—whimsically—"you're too great necessity here for me to allow anything to distract you from your work."

Her face, flushed with fever as it was, beamed softly as he mentioned her father, and connected that word with "too great a care." Her father too great a care.

"Father a care?" she answered half interrogatively. "You don't know father, Mr. Norris. He is the one joy of my life. For years before I was old enough or able to work, he was father and mother to me. Up with the sun each morning, he saw to it that my clothes were brushed, my pencils sharpened for school—made a warm fire and prepared my breakfast. Then, off to the frightful bleach factory where he got his cough, and at work all day, and sometimes part of the night, that I might have a pretty hair-ribbon, or a pair of new slippers. All my youthful hopes, desires, troubles were poured into his willing ears at night, and he was ever sympathetic with the extravagant fancies of my flighty, childish imagination, and always gentle in his reproaches for my many faults. No, father's no care to me. It gives me pleasure each morning that I have strength to go out to work,—that I am responsible for his comfort,—and it lightens my weariness each night that I may go home and try to anticipate his every unspoken wish."

IV.

"You love me, Ray?"

Mrs. Norris asked the question of her husband. He had come home, his step light, his face expectant. He met a cold and unresponsive wife.

Norris Met a Cold and Unresponsive Wife.

The seed of suspicion planted by Mrs. Fall had taken root on fertile soil. And so she asked the question.

"Love you?—why what a question! I passionately adore you. You are the guiding spirit, the holiest inspiration of my life! Without you all the rest is a meaningless jumble. But,—and here his voice took on a tone of bewilderment—"I didn't think you needed assurances!"

It was now tenfold difficult for her to go on; but she felt that this was no time to falter.

"Would you do anything, sacrifice anything in the whole world for me?"

"Anything. Everything."

"Then send that girl away from your office—and get another one."

"Send that girl away! You mean Miss Foster?"

"Yes."

"But why?—this is absurd! Why send Myra Foster away?"

"Because I wish it."

"But you must have some reason. This can't be mere imperious arbitrariness. You are not like that. Can't you tell me why? Myra Foster is my most able assistant. To send her away would be to disable me in my most important work. Besides, it would be unjust. She is a very worthy girl. She is the sole support of her aged father."

He felt the urgent sincerity of her request, and knew how deeply she was moved. But her concern was so obviously unfounded on fact that he could not help but believe it was an hysterical outbreak that would be dispelled when her overwrought nerves were quieted, and reason returned. It would be ridiculous, wrong, to sacrifice Myra to this hysteria, so he decided to be firm, and make no rash promise. He spoke:

"Some old gossip has evidently been busy. We'll talk more of this when your nerves are quieter."

"No, we will talk of it now. Will you?"

"No."

She turned, despairing-eyed and limp, and walked dazedly from the room.

The next morning Ethel kept to her room. Ray left for his office, the usual spring gone from his gait, his face grave with the anxiety of the previous evening. He arrived in the city, and proceeded immediately to his work. Myra Foster was there, and her energetized movements as she went about her work showed only too plainly that her "bothersome cold and slight headache" had not improved overnight. He decided quickly upon his course with regard to Myra's case, and spoke to her:

"Miss Foster, you are ill. You're in no condition for work at the present time in this or any office, and I'm going to send you and your father away. I have a place down on the ocean, where you can get a breath of fresh salt air, and win back some of your old time strength and snap. So make ready, please. We can start just as soon as you can get your things together."

"Very well, Mr. Norris, and thank you. I—er—thank you—any words seem so inadequate, so expressive, in acknowledgment of such kindness. I'm afraid!"—her voice grew soft and tender—"you'll have to take my thanks for granted."

"Forget it," he said, inelegantly, and turned to get his coat.

"Ha, ha!—Oh my!" He looked quickly over his shoulder at the sound of her mirth. "Gracious!" she said, half sadly, half amusedly, "we forgot the most important thing. It can't be done! How about old man Convention, his wife Scandal, and their daughter Gossip? What will people say?"

"Oh, that's all right—don't let that concern you. Your father will be there, and I'll tell my wife tonight."

Together they left the office, climbed into his machine, picked up her father, and in less than three hours were "down in his place by the ocean."

Ethel Norris came down from her room after her husband left, and her usually gay face was grave, and her eyes red and heavy. She ate no breakfast, and the servants had to speak to her many times over before she could comprehend their meaning. She dressed for the street about noon, and without, as usual, leaving word of her intended destination, left the house.

She had spent a night of very hell, her spirit tortured almost beyond endurance at the thought of another coming between her and what was dearer to her than life. She would see. She would go to his office, and let her quick woman's intuition scent out the truth for her.

She reached his office and was about to go in when a cunning thought came to her. Why let them be aware of her presence? Why give them an opportunity to be on their guard? She turned back, her "cleverness" for the moment obsessing her, and making her fearless, clean face ugly with the blight of subtlety. She would go to Fall's office, make some slight pretext for her visit, and watch them from there. She knocked softly, and, getting no answer, pushed further open the slightly ajar door, and looked in.

No one there. He must have stepped out for just a moment, or his door would be locked. So much the better. A moment would be enough, would, without her having to conceal that she was watching, be worth many minutes with his attention upon her. The window was open, and she went to it, keeping always in the shadow of the wall, so that she could see without being seen.

Mrs. Norris saw her husband's office was empty. What could it mean? She made bolder, stepped to the center of the aperture, and bent far out to peer into the office opposite. The sheer depth of the long shaft fascinated her and gave her a light hollow feeling of nausea. She drew in her head with a sharp jerk, and staggered back, her giddiness overcoming her. She would have fallen but for a strong arm around her waist. It was Willard Fall.

He bowed with mock courtesy at her startled surprise at being apprehended, and spoke with more than his usual unction.

"So, my dear, spying on me, eh? Had I divined your coming, I might have made preparations so's not to disappoint your expectations."

She turned, and had started to go, when his voice again arrested her.

Your idol seems to have clay feet. You indulge in the common fallacy of imagining that every man you have no intimate acquaintance with is a model of propriety. No one who is acquainted with your reputation as the watchdog of society"—here he grinned—"would ever believe you to be so frightfully unsophisticated. Why it was only a short while ago, when glancing casually out of this window and across the court, I saw Norris,

In the doorway stood Mrs. Fall. Fate was now taking a hand, and the certain destiny started on its way by an evil-tongued man and a suspicious-minded woman, was hurrying the pawns to a swift destruction.

Mrs. Norris went to her mother, who calmed her fears and sent her to her home again, after a good night's sleep. Mrs. Fall applied for a divorce and then went to the seashore and sought her cottage on the beach—the same beach on which the Norris cottage stood.

Mrs. Fall arrived at the beach in time to enjoy the sea air for half an hour before dinner, and relaxed in her comfortable beach-chair alongside another occupied by a Mrs. Hunter. Mrs. Hunter, like Mrs. Fall, was one of the old guard of society, and the range of her "observation" was astonishing. Other people's affairs were as the breath of life to her, and she took it, in effect, as a personal affront if society did not constantly furnish her keen scent with a fresh track. Just now she fairly fluttered with pleasure as as she struggled to arrive at an explanation all too plausible that would sustain and re-enforce her horrible suspicions of yesterday.

(Continued on Page Seven.)

The fear that she herself would be placed in a questionable position in the eyes of her husband had outweighed her fears for his fidelity to her. Her trip to her mother, and her mother's reproach for her lack of faith had resolved her to tell all and stake her future happiness on his belief in her in the face of obviously incriminating circumstances. Now that she had whipped her cowering courage to a desperate, brave stand, and had made ready to stand or fall on the strength of his love for her—now came this filthy gossip scandalmonger with a tale which, if it were true—and it was only too plausible—would reawaken in her her initial doubt of his fidelity, strengthened and indorsed a hundred fold.

(Continued on Page Seven.)

THE STRASBURG CLOCK.

Its Many Remarkable Features That Make It Famous.

Strassburg, the capital of Alsace-Lorraine, is remarkable for the great clock of its cathedral.

This clock, which is twenty feet in height, was made by Jean Baptiste Schwilgué in 1842. Besides various astronomical devices indicating true solar time, it has a great planetarium in which the revolutions of the planets are represented, so that the relative positions of each at any time can be seen at a glance.

Then on a platform above are movable figures representing the four ages of man. At the first quarter of an hour a child strikes the bell with a rattle; a youth in the garb of a hunter strikes it with an arrow at the half hour; at the third quarter a warrior strikes it with his sword, and at the fourth quarter an old man strikes it with his crutch. Then a figure of Death appears and strikes the full hour with a fleshless bone.

On the highest platform is a natural sized figure of Christ, and when Death strikes the hour at noon the twelve apostles pass before the feet of their master, bowing as they do so. As Peter passes a large cock perched off on one side flaps his wings, ruffles his neck and gives three times a loud and perfectly natural crow.—London Standard.

LIGHTNING RODS.

Why They End in a Sharp Point and Not in a Knob.

The reason a lightning rod has a sharp point is because a fine point offers no resistance to the discharge of electricity and in order that a cloud may be emptied of its noiselessly and harmlessly.

The degree of resistance is in proportion to the surface of the object. If the rod were surmounted by a knob, for instance, the discharge would be violent. But many a lightning rod has received an electrical discharge when the people in the building below were calmly unconscious of the fact. Non-corrosive metal is used for the point of the rod, as corrosion makes resistance.

The difference between a point and a ball is shown in discharging a battery. The full charge from a large battery would be received quietly on a metal point, while a moderate charge from a small one would explode violently on a ball.

It is said that a full charge may be passed harmlessly through a person's body if received on the point of a needle, whereas the same charge received on a discharger with a ball or knob on the end would mean instant death.—London Telegraph.

Mistakes in Use of Words.

If use can make authority in the employment of words it is high time that certain etymologically misused phrases of our English tongue should be adopted into the family of orthodoxy. The word "necessity" is habitually used as the equivalent of "necessarily," instead of being its direct opposite. A man says: "I do not care for the luxuries of life if I have the necessities," when probably he has the "necessities" in clamorous abundance. Quite as common a blunder is the confusion between the words "expect" and "suspect."

A man says: "There is a knock at the door. I expect that is the tax collector." He should say, "I have been expecting the tax collector and suspect that he is."—Boston Transcript.

Indians of Ecuador.

Perhaps nowhere on the globe do human beings so much resemble passive beasts of burden as in Ecuador. In fact, the Indians used to be designated in documents as "smaller beasts of burden" to distinguish them from pack animals. Loaded, they clamber up the steep streets as stolid as little gray burros. One sees many an urchin of seven years bearing on his back a load of bricks as heavy as he is. One woman, bent under a burden, carries a child at her breast. Another laden woman piles distaff and spindle as she creeps along. Here is a file of barefoot women bent under loads of earth or bricks escorted by a man with a whip.—Professor Edward Alsworth Ross' "South of Panama."

"Pop, what's a cynic? A man who is tired of everybody?"

"Yes, son, and who tires everybody?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

SUNDAY ONLY.

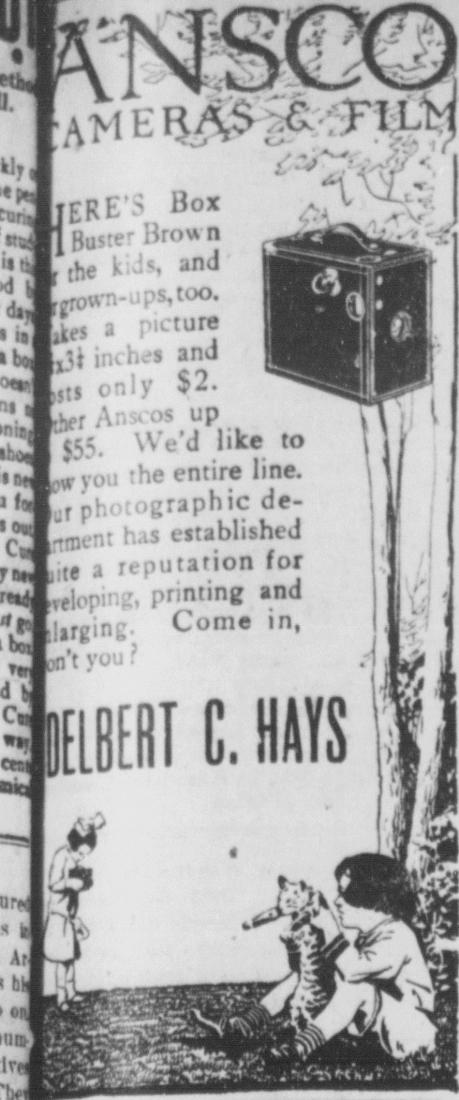

To Dayton—9:24 a. m.; 7:41 p. m.

To Wellston—9:44 a. m.; 6:57 p. m.

DETROIT, TOLEDO & IRONTON GOING NORTH GOING SOUTH

No. Springfield || No. Greenfield

2...7:

WHO PAYS?

(Continued from Page Six.)

VI.

In awakening that morning, Norris was again visited with his dread of the previous day, that Ethel should hear of Myra's installment in his cottage before he had an opportunity to tell her. This troubled him so, that he ate no breakfast, but hurried to his office, trusting the exactions of his business to take his mind from the annoying thought. He had a violent headache by eleven o'clock, and attributing it to the fact that he had neglected his breakfast, went to an early lunch. That was why, when Ethel called him at 11:30, he was out. His lunch gave him immediate relief.

He bought an "extra" from a newsboy, folded it carelessly under his arm, and ascended to his office. As he threw the sheet on his desk it fell face upward, and the words "Attorney's Wife Is Co-respondent in Divorce Suit," staring at him in big black type stretched clear across the page. Maybe it was someone he knew. He took the sheet up and carefully read the sub-headings: "Mrs. Willard Fall ('Fall!'" he gasped) charges she found Mrs. Ray Norris and Mr. Fall embracing—

The sheet fell from his nerveless fingers and he swallowed hard, few times to moisten his throat and mouth, which had become suddenly dry. Then came a reaction from his nerveless unrealization; he felt a weak shaking throughout this whole body, and was conscious of his heart pulsing in great, uneven jumps. The monstrousness, the bold assurance of that staring type was incredible. It was hideous, foul. His wife and Fall! Why, they hardly knew one another!

The one event that distinguished the last few days from a year of happy, uneventful marriage was Ethel's insistent, hysterical demand to send Myra Foster away from his office. In explanation she had expressed an unwilling doubt (a doubt nevertheless) that his relations with the girl were all that they should be. He knew his relations with Myra Foster were simple, honest, businesslike, and that thought, combined with his wife's suspicion, suggested to him insidiously, but certainly, that her suspicion of him might be but a blind for her relations with Fall. Good God, what a hideous thought! He picked up his phone receiver, clicked the hook nervously many times, and after what seemed an unusual wait, was connected with his home.

"Hello, Mrs. Norris, please. This is Mr. Norris."

"Mrs. Norris is not in, sir. She left full an hour and a half ago, and left word she had gone to the beach cottage. Yes. Good-by."

She had gone to the beach!—a place he could never prevail on her to visit! Why? Had she heard of Myra Foster being there? He knew gossip could travel as fast, and faster, than that. But, if she were using his relations with Myra Foster as a blind to cover her own affairs (this damnable thought kept persisting), if she were, was it possible that she would have the temerity to seize on Myra's presence in the cottage as a justification of a suspicion she knew to be false? He cursed himself for his vile suspicions. But she had gone to the beach—if not for that, then for what?

The thought of Fall then entered his mind and took his whole attention, and he glanced hastily, searching across the court to see whether he was in his office. If this frightful thing were true—His lips met in a long, hard seam as he unlocked the bottom drawer of his desk and without looking hastily withdrew something and slipped it into his pocket. He rose, desperate, and leaving his office, crossed to Fall's

Fall was not there. He questioned the porter.

"When will Fall be in?"

"I don't know, Mr. Fall left word he had gone to the beach, but didn't leave no message when he'd be back again."

Ray started, shocked at the advice that Fall had gone to the beach. He said "all right" in a preoccupied voice that seemed even to him not to have emanated from his own throat, and walked unsteadily away, "a sorta quiet, wild look," as the porter afterwards told, "on his face." It was all very clear to him now—her subtle trickery under the mask of "injured innocence"—Fall with his unspeakable reputation—their discovery in a compromising position by Mrs. Fall, and the resultant divorce suit—and now both of them together at the beach!

Had the insanity which now possessed him taken a violent form he might have been apprehended and prevented from doing any harm; but it was visible only in his crafty eyes and unnaturally quiet bearing as he jumped into his auto and started for the coast.

Fall had seen the "extra" before Norris, and his wife's drastic action had made him suddenly afraid. He "sipped from every flower" and recked not the cost; but this thing, copied by all the papers throughout the land, might, and very probably would, ruin him.

He took an early train for the beach, where he endeavored to placate his wife and make her withdraw her charge; but she had ceased to think of him as a positive quantity, and was unmoved by his appeals.

When Ethel arrived she went straight to her cottage, which she found deserted. Myra and her father had gone to the shore. She drew in her breath sharply as her anxious eyes, after searching the living room for signs of its new occupant, fell on a large, floppy straw hat flung carelessly on a chair. She picked it up and examined it eagerly, her essential feminine blinding her for the moment to its indication, and causing her to wonder what he could see in that; then realizing its significance she dashed it fiercely to the ground and started for the beach. She walked quickly, tirelessly in the soft sand, and was startled when, after sharp turn round a ledge of rock, she came upon Willard Fall. He was sobered by his wife's refusal to listen to his entreaties, and was as dejected as his trivial nature would allow. He lifted his hat.

"Good afternoon, Mrs. Norris. Thought you didn't like the seashore."

"Howdyo, Mr. Fall. Oh, I come down occasionally."

"I've wanted ever since that frightful day, to let you know how sorry I am that you should have been placed in such an unfortunate position."

He said nothing, however, of the divorce suit, thinking she must already know. She wanted to be rid of him—wanted to fly on wildly—wanted to find them—wanted and feared to—feared every step that took her eager, urgent feet further and further along the limitless stretch of beach. He kept on talking, solicitously trying his utmost to assure her of his regret.

Racing, careening madly down the beach came Norris' auto, its flying wheels sending up a swirl of sand in their wake. It stopped within a few yards of them, and Norris, a strange, wild expression on his face, jumped out. He had seen them half a mile off, and the sight of them together changed his crafty, quiet look to one of terrible rage. Dashing wildly up to where they stood, he thrust the frightful headline under Ethel's eyes, his face twitching in frightful contortions.

"Is it true? Is it true? Is it—"

Ethel's eyes took in the glaring headline, and followed down to the subhead. She started back, gasping, realizing fully that what she had dreaded had come to pass—that he had learned from another source what she had not the courage to tell him—that he had doubted her as she him—that it was all a hideous misunderstanding fed on by gossip—and that the man before her was a raving maniac.

Norris Kills Fall and Slimy Scandal Claims Its Victim.

Fall had edged off. But Norris, watching her, needed no answer, her startled gasp as she shrank back convicting her utterly.

His hand went deep in his pocket, and when he wheeled and raised his arm there was a short sharp flash, and Fall dropped in the sand. He rose, and with faltering steps started like a drunken man toward a cliff overlooking the sea. Stumbling, falling, desperately rising, he made his way up through the rocks to the cliff's top, as Ethel wrestled frantically with the madman before her.

He broke loose from her clutching fingers, and again raising his arm, pointed it toward the cliff's summit where Fall tottered. Another shot—a sickening splash—and the softly lapping, halcyon waters of the Pacific closed over the dead body of Willard Fall.

Slimy scandal, born of doubt and misunderstanding, had come into its own.

Lives were ruined; lives were ended.

Because a woman couldn't hold her tongue the penalty was paid—paid—paid.

WHO PAYS?
End of Sixth Story.
The next story is: "Blue Blood and Yellow."

See these Pictures every Wednesday night at Colonial Theatre.

Want to rent a house?—"Want Ads"

SAMUEL'S "THREE-P" FOR INDIGESTION

Best remedy on the market today. Eat what you want—take a Samuel's "3-P" Capone and there will be no more sour, gassy, upset stomachs.

Blackmer & Tanquary

Frank Christopher

ANGELES IS ENVOY OF PEACE

Washington, June 22.—General Felipe Angeles, who has been General Villa's principal military expert since the split in the Mexican Constitutionalist movement, is en route to Boston. He denied there had been any break between himself and Villa. This was asserted also by representatives of General Villa in Washington, including Enrique C. Llorente, Villa's special agent, and a close personal friend of Angeles.

Although disclaiming any official knowledge, Villa's spokesmen intimated that Angeles had been commissioned to discuss peace plans with the Washington government and that some of the leading supporters of General Carranza, including Obregon and members of the Carranza cabinet, whose resignations have been accepted, were cognizant of efforts to be made for a solution of Mexican difficulties.

General Carranza, who has thus far declined to accept Villa's offer for a conference to devise a plan for re-establishment of constitutional government, formally notified his Washington representative that reports of a break between himself and Obregon were without foundation. Notwithstanding this, however, officials here were inclined to the belief that Obregon and other Constitutional leaders, who thus far have stood with Carranza in his uncompromising attitude, were now ready to talk of peace negotiations.

The resignation from the Carranza cabinet of Raphael Zubaran, Jesus Urueta and Escudero Verdugo, friends of Obregon, were regarded as officially significant, in view of Carranza's refusal to consider Villa's appeal for a conference. Consul Silliman at Vera Cruz reported to the state department that Carranza had accepted these resignations, together with that of Luis Cabrera, minister of finance. Carranza's agents here, however, insisted that the general had not accepted Cabrera's resignation and that he had assumed that Carrera would remain in the cabinet.

Advices to the department regarding General Angeles said he had come to the United States to visit his family. Department officials had no hesitancy though in saying they expected the Villa chieftain to come to Washington in the near future.

Washington officials still view the Yaqui uprising and perils of foreigners in the Yaqui valley with considerable concern, and are awaiting reports from Rear Admiral Howard, who arrived at Guaymas on his flagship Colorado to afford protection to foreigners in the valley. It is known that Mexican General Maytorena is determined to handle the situation, if possible, in order to avert the possibility of American marines from Admiral Howard's flagship marching inland against his protest.

Washington officials still view the Yaqui uprising and perils of foreigners in the Yaqui valley with considerable concern, and are awaiting reports from Rear Admiral Howard, who arrived at Guaymas on his flagship Colorado to afford protection to foreigners in the valley. It is known that Mexican General Maytorena is determined to handle the situation, if possible, in order to avert the possibility of American marines from Admiral Howard's flagship marching inland against his protest.

Senators Phelan was designated a special representative of the state department to make the Sullivan investigation several months ago. Hearings were held in Washington, at which sensational testimony was given by a number of witnesses. One of these who testified was the president's private secretary, Joseph F. Tumulty. Later Senator Phelan, with his assistants, went to Santo Domingo to complete the inquiry.

REWARD

$15 Will be paid for information leading to the arrest and conviction, of any one found guilty of seining or dynamiting or other violations of the Fish and Game Laws.

FAYETTE COUNTY
FISH and GAME ASSOCIATION
Washington, C. H., Ohio.

Classified Advertisements

The People's Column

RATES PER WORD.

1 time in Daily Herald,
6t in Herald & 1t in Register,
12t in Herald & 2t in Register,
26t in Herald & 4t in Register,
62t in Herald & 8t in Register,
Additional time 1c per word per week
Minimum charges: 1t, 15c; 6t, 30c.

FOR RENT.

FOR RENT—Part of house at 117 N. North street. 14216

FOR RENT—4-room house, growing garden, $7. Dalbey & Hitchcock. 14216

FOR RENT—One large furnished room for one or two persons. Mrs. S. F. DeWees, W. Court street. 14116

FOR RENT—House on N. North street, 6 rooms, bath, store room, water, gas, newly painted, papered, $14. Key at Mrs. Kimball's. 14216

FOR RENT—House of 5 rooms; good well and cistern, on Third St. Inquire of F. C. Mayer, Citz. phone 768. 1397f

FOR RENT—Both sides of double house on E. Temple street; gas all over house. Sinks and water in kitchens. Would like to have two small families agreeable to each other. Chas. U. Armstrong. 1367f

FOR RENT—House of 6 rooms; all modern conveniences. Florence Ogle, Citz. phone 133. 1357f

FOR RENT—About May 20, half new house 5 rooms and bath; good location; good yard, $12.50. Inquire Bentz's Grocery. 1137f

FOR RENT—Half of double house on Washington Ave. Modern in every respect. Citz. phone 4719. 897f

FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Burglar and fireproof safe in perfect condition. Palace Cigar Store. 1457f

FOR SALE—1914 model Indian twin, two-speed motorcycle. Bargain is sold at once. Van Pelt's garage. 1457f

FOR SALE—Cherries at J. H. Hoppers farm on Jeffersonville pike. 14416

LOST AND FOUND.

LOST—Lady's leather purse containing a door key and between $1.50 and $2.00 in money. Finder can keep change by returning purse to this office. 1457f

LOST—Bunch of keys with magneto wrench; finder return to Lon Stevenson. 14416

They Help in a Way.
"Riches are not everything," declared bitterly the poor, but honest, suitor, who had just been rejected. "They cannot insure happiness."

"Perhaps not," replied the practical maiden, "but they at least provide means to pay the premiums on the policy!"—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Inappropriate Garb.
How are you coming along with your new magazine, the Society Girl?"
"All right. But the mailing propos-

When military "experts" give it up it's time to admit that war isn't what it used to be.

As a training school for married life the diplomatic service should not be overlooked.

Newspaper Advertising

Goes direct to the people and the people constitute the buying public. Newspaper advertising not only talks but it emphasizes; it has the undivided attention of the reader and covers a field no salesman can hope to reach. There are many styles in newspaper advertising and the small announcement, which costs only five cents, is just as effective in its way as the larger one, which costs proportionately more. The benefits to be derived can not be measured by the size of the ad, for the very good reason that the small, inexpensive announcement invariably proves effective. Newspaper advertising costs from five cents up to any price the advertiser desires to pay.

GOPHER SMITH IS TAKEN AFTER AN ARDUOUS CHASE

Farmers and Workmen Join Police in Pursuit Over Fields and Through Timber Which Lasts More Than an Hour—Captive Admits That He Was Worn Out, the First Time in His Notable Career.

"Gopher" Smith, Washington's blue ribbon sprinter and all-around police character, is again viewing the world through the barred windows of the county jail, and before him looms a term in the Mansfield reformatory.

For the first time in his long and successful career consisting chiefly of "running away" from the law, Gopher Smith Monday afternoon was literally "run to earth," in a chase covering several miles of ground and of more than an hour in duration, in which at least a dozen farmers and workmen joined.

Smith will be taken before the mayor, probably Wednesday, to answer to a charge preferred by Willard Johnson of assault with intent to kill.

Johnson appeared before the mayor Monday morning and swore out a warrant for Smith, whom he alleged assaulted him Sunday night, beating him about the head with a brick in the process. For sometime the police have been looking for Smith on account of his attempting to interfere with Officer Baughn in the arrest of Ray Smith, a brother, a week ago.

Chief Moore and Officer Baughn started out to hunt for Smith, after receiving a "tip," about 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. About 2 o'clock they located him, hiding among some weeds along the B. & O. right-of-way near the handle factory. Smith saw the police as soon as they saw him and as they were still some distance from his he "lit out."

Several employees from the handle factory, witnessing Smith's break for freedom, joined the police in the pursuit. Gopher, as the police describe it, simply "flew" over a fence along the right-of-way and started across a field in a southerly direction, going as near as could be estimated, about 60 miles an hour.

THINGS DOING AT THE MOVIES

WONDERLAND.

"The Cryptic Ring" is the title of the mysterious Elaine installment at the Wonderland Tuesday. The new series, with Wu Fang as the chief disturber, started last week and has attracted a great deal of attention.

"The Ghost Breaker," a Lasky picture of the Paramount program, is scheduled for Wednesday. This play features H. B. Warner and is a collaborative story by Paul Dickey and Charles W. Goddard.

Friday the Wonderland has a Charles Frohman Paramount production entitled "The Conspiracy." This picture shows its chief author, John Emerson, in the leading role. Robert Baker is one of the authors.

PALACE.

The Palace announces that this week's bill will contain the largest and best assortment of pictures shown at that theater in many weeks. A feature has been secured for each night.

Monday Harry Myers and Rosemary Sheby were seen in "Saved by a Dream," a first class Victor-Universal release. Tuesday "Wild Irish Rose," with Cleo Madison and Joe King, will be the feature.

Billie Ritchie, famous comedian and worthy rival of the Charlie Chaplin, is the headliner for Wednesday's program, in two reels of "Under the Table."

"The Troubadour," with Murdock McQuarrie and Agnes Vernon, has been booked for Thursday.

"The Bombay Budha" is heralded as the top top feature of the week's entertainment. This picture is produced in three parts and will be shown Friday. Hobert Henley and Frances Nelson are the leads. "The Bombay Budha" is an Imp special release.

Saturday will find Grace Cunard and Francis Ford back on the screen in "The Doorway of Destruction."

AIRDOME.

"The Marked Woman" will be the Airdome's feature for the week and will be shown Thursday. The management announces this show as a benefit performances for the Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church. The proceeds of a matinee at the Palace the same day will be given to this society.

At this time the Palace has found it advisable to book but one feature at the Airdome each week and to carry out a first class five cent program the remainder of the time.

"The Marked Woman" is starred by Barbara Tennant and is a fine reel Schubert.

COLONIAL.

Richard Harding Davis, famous author and newspaper man, is the author of a photoplay to be shown at the Colonial Tuesday, entitled "The Lost House." The picture is a four reel and ranks among the choice Mutual Masterpiece releases.

"Houses of Glass" is the name of the Wednesday installment of the popular "Who Pays" series of subjects on vital questions of life. These pictures have proved a big drawing card at the Colonial.

"She Stoops to Conquer" is a Mutual four reel for Friday and is a direct adoption from the famous stage success of that name.

Lip Reading Detectives.

In a Vienna school for the deaf and dumb, where lip reading is taught, a course has been established for the special purpose of teaching the art to detectives. The possibilities of lip reading, says the author of the account in the Volta Review, have been exaggerated. But they are sufficient to cause authorities to think the instruction of detectives worth while. When a detective becomes proficient, he is able to learn something of the conversation between people who are visible, but out of earshot. The article says that at from 50 to 100 feet it is possible for an expert to get the general run of a conversation. Some reading has been done with glasses at a distance of 125 feet. Instruction and practice in the art must be very thorough if the detective is to use it to real advantage in his work.

In Hard Luck.

"Here's a bride sues for divorce three days after marriage."

"Gee, it's tough to start a guy paying alimony the first week." — Louisville Courier-Journal

Deserved Tribute.

"You see, we have done everything possible to preserve Plymouth Rock."

"And I don't blame ye. New England owes a heap to that breed of hen." — Kansas City Journal

Markets

Close of Markets Today

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Chicago, June 22.—Hogs—Receipts 16000—Market steady—Light workers $7.50@7.90; heavy workers $7.15@7.80; pigs $6.25@7.50.

Cattle—Receipts 2000—Market strong—Native steers $6.85@9.50; western steers $7.00@8.25; cows and heifers $3.25@9.00; calves $8.50@9.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts 7000—Market firm—Sheep, natives $5.50@6.40; lambs, natives $6.75@9.25; spring lambs $6.25@9.90.

Pittsburg, June 22.—Hogs—Receipts 1500—Market active—Yorkers $8.10@8.15; pigs $7.50@7.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts 300—Market steady—Top sheep $6.35@top lambs $9.75.

Calves—Receipts 200—Market steady—Top $9.75.

GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, June 22.—Wheat—July $1.01 1/4; Sept. 99 3/4.

Corn—July 72 3/4; Sept. 72 1/2.

Oats—July 43 3/4; Sept. 38.

Pork—July $16.77; Sept. $17.22.

Lard—July $9.35; Sept. 9.62.

THE LOCAL MARKET.

Corrected Daily at 3 P. M.

Wheat $1.08

Corn 70c

Oats 50c

Prices Paid for Produce.

Hens 10c

Eggs 17c

Butter 2c

Potatoes 70c

Lard 10c

Close of Markets Yesterday

(By American Press)

EAST BUFFALO.

Cattle—Prime steers, $9.00@9.50; shipping, $8.50@8.90; butchers, $7.25@8.75; heifers, $6.50@8.25; cows, $7.50@7.75; bulls, $5.67; calves, $4.50@5.10.

Hogs—Heavy, $7.85@8.10; mixed, $8.15; Yorkers, $8.10@8.15; pigs, $7.90@8.50; stags, $5.65@5.75; roughs, $6.50@6.65.

Sheep and Lambs—Yearlings, $5.62@8.

Sheep, $6.25@6.50; ewes, $3.50@5.50; mixed sheep, $5.75@6; lambs, $7@10.

Receipts—Cattle, 3,500; hogs, 18,000; sheep and lambs, 2,000; calves, 1,900.

CHICAGO.

Cattle—Native beef steers, $6.85@9.50; western steers, $7.25@8.25; cows and heifers, $3.25@6.50; calves, $7.49@7.75.

Hogs—Light, $7.60@7.90; mixed, $7.15@7.30; pigs, $6.25@7.60.

Sheep and Lambs—Sheep, $5.50@6.40; lambs, $6.75@9.25; spring lambs, $6.25@8.

Receipts—Cattle, 16,600; hogs, 37,000; sheep and lambs, 10,600.

CLEVELAND.

Cattle—Choice fat steers, $8.00@8.75; butcher steers, $7.00@8.25; heifers, $7.00@8.25; bulls, $6.00@6.75; cows, $3.50@6.50; calves, $5.62@6.25.

Hogs—Mediums, Yorkers and lights, $8.00@8.75; roughs, $6.50@7.50; stags, $5.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Wethers, $5.75@6.25; ewes, $4.00@5.50; lambs, $9.00@9.50.

Receipts—Cattle, 1,000; hogs, 6,500; sheep and lambs, 2,500; calves, 400.

CINCINNATI.

Cattle—Steers, $5.25@8.50; heifers, $5.50@9.75; cows, $3.50@6.65; calves, $5.50@9.75.

Hogs—Packer and butchers, $7.70@7.85; common to choice, $5.50@6.90; pigs and lights, $5.50@7.75; stags, $4.50@6.25; pigs, $5.50@7.75@8.

Sheep and Lambs—Sheep, $3.25@6.25; lambs, $6.62@6.75.

Receipts—Cattle, 1,000; hogs, 3,700; sheep and lambs, 1,500.

PITTSBURGH.

Cattle—Top cattle, $8.25@8.25; top calves, $9.75.

Hogs—Heavy, $8.50@8.75; mixed, medium and Yorkers, $8.10@8.15; pigs, $7.75@8.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Top sheep $6.50@7.50; top lambs, $10.50.

BOSTON.

Wool—Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces, Delaine washed, 22@23c; XX, 32c; half blood combing, 31c; three-eighths blood combing, 36@37c; delaine unwashed, 26c@27c; fine unwashed, 25@26c.

Receipts—Cattle, $1.16@4; corn, 75@4; oats, 50c; clover seed, $8.15.

TOLEDO.

While nineteen American countries were discussing the best means for establishing closer relationships nearly as many European countries were shooting their old relationships to pieces.

McFadden's Cash Grocery.

Staple and Fancy Groceries

Cured Meats

Fruits and Vegetables

Phones—Citz. 29 Bell 281 Main

Union Delivery

Glenn Allen's Grocery

The House that cut the high cost of living in Washington,

Pineapples

For canning. Now is the time to buy your Pines for canning. Large, ripe fruit.

3 for 25c

FANCY HOME GROWN STRAWBERRIES

Bananas 15-20c doz. Oranges 25c to 35c

GREEN BEANS, PEAS, RADISHES, ONIONS, BEETS, NEW TURNIPS, NEW POTATOES, NEW CABBAGE

NEW CREAM CHEESE 20c pound

RED BIRD COFFEE 25c pound

If You Want Extra Fancy

COUNTRY BUTTER—WE HAVE IT

CALL OR PHONE US YOUR ORDER—IT WILL PAY YOU

Corner Main and East Streets.

Union Delivery.

BOTH PHONES

PARRETT'S GROCERY

"THE YELLOW FRONT."

THE HOME OF QUALITY FOR TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS

Cantaloupes

Are coming much larger now. Fancy California

Price, each, 10c

Red Currants

Homegrown. First lot due tomorrow. Let us have your order.

Ross County Raspberries

Per quart, 15c.

Cherries

Good quality and price low

<h